

Ike Suffered Heart Failure, Doctors Admit

Brief Congestive Condition May Have Reduced Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors, revealing for the first time that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered serious temporary congestive heart failure one week ago, say "he may well have less reserve strength than previously."

The physicians acknowledged Friday they were more concerned than ever about the chronic heart condition of the 78-year-old general who is recovering from intestinal surgery.

Despite this concern, a medical bulletin late Friday from Walter Reed General Hospital said "the general's condition today is favorable... he is resting comfortably and his spirits are good."

Casual Remark

Word of the congestive heart failure episode came in response to questions as a result of off-the-cuff remarks by Mrs. Eisenhower and a little-noticed Wednesday medical bulletin from the hospital.

Mrs. Eisenhower commented at a fashion show that her husband has "good days and bad" and that last Saturday was a particularly bad one. It was so bad, she said, that "I didn't take my clothes off for 30 hours" while keeping watch near the general's bedside at the hospital.

The medical bulletin, issued after President Nixon had visited Eisenhower for 20 minutes, said the former president has recovered from the immediate effects of Feb. 23 surgery for a gastrointestinal obstruction. But it also said Eisenhower "continues to be weak and his cardiovascular status remains a matter of concern to his physicians."

Staying at Hospital
Mrs. Eisenhower has been staying at the hospital virtually all the time since last May 14 when her husband was hospitalized to convalesce from a major heart attack suffered two weeks earlier in California. Since then he has suffered three more heart attacks and the intestinal obstruction that required emergency surgery.

It was against this background that the Associated Press submitted questions asking further details about the Saturday incident, and the "concern" voiced in the doctors' bulletin.

Congestive heart failure occurs when one or more chambers of the heart fail to empty adequately during the heart's pumping action.

This can lead to an accumulation of fluids in blood vessel supplying the lungs, or other parts of the body, or both.

Sirhan Went 'Berserk' After Drinking, Psychiatrist Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After drinking six ounces of gin in a jail cell test, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan became "like a wild beast" and began talking as if Sen. Robert F. Kennedy were still alive, a psychiatrist says.

"He never said he killed Kennedy," Dr. Eric Marcus told the jury Friday trying Sirhan for Kennedy's murder. "He kept talking as though Kennedy were alive. He said 'that bastard isn't worth the bullet.' With all my prodding he never said he killed Kennedy."

There has been testimony that Sirhan had three Tom Collins before shooting the New York senator in the Ambassador Hotel last June 5. Sirhan says he doesn't remember the shooting but does recall buying several drinks.

Went Berserk

The bartender's recipe for the gin mixture was duplicated in the drinks served Sirhan. Marcus described what happened next:

"Psychologically he went berserk. He was extremely agitated and restless and cursing and had to be physically restrained."

"He kept grabbing at this throat. He said 'What the hell is going on here?' He thought he was choking. He said 'I'll get even with those Jews.'"

"I think he thought he was back at the Ambassador Hotel. Then he started talking about how 20 years were enough for the Jews and Kennedy didn't help them."

"The alcohol triggered off some sort of an irritation. He became sort of like a wild beast."

'Diminished Responsibility'

The defense attempt to save Sirhan from the gas chamber is based on showing "diminished responsibility," that he was incapable of planning the slaying.

A second defense psychiatrist, Dr. Bernard Diamond tried to reawaken Sirhan's memories of that night under hypnosis. He had barely begun his testimony Friday when the trial was adjourned for the weekend.

Marcus said Sirhan had thought about assassinations "for an awfully long period of time." He had been shown two books Sirhan used at a high school in Pasadena in 1964.

In one book, next to a passage about the assassination of President William McKinley, Sirhan had written: "Many more will come." In the second book, Sirhan had underlined a passage dealing with the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary, which touched off World War I.

Memory Loss

Sirhan's loss of memory—which the prosecution calls "convenient"—underwent close scrutiny in cross examination of Marcus.

David Fitts, a co-prosecutor, recalled that in the hours after Kennedy was shot, Sirhan—in a police interrogation room—never once asked why he was there.

Fitts suggested that wasn't logical for someone whose memory had been erased and Marcus agreed.

"That leaves only the hypothesis of malingering?"

"Apparently so."

"Then Mr. Sirhan lied to you?" Fitts suggested.

"That's quite possible," the psychiatrist replied.

Laird Sure ABM Will be Approved

Secretary of Defense Not Shaken by Long Grilling
On Antimissile System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird emerged from Senate grilling with the image of a cool, dogged performer and an unshaken conviction he can win the White House case for a revised missile defense system.

But the question of who—if anyone—came out ahead in the administration's first Capitol Hill presentation of arguments for a Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) system remains to be seen.

Laird wound up three days of testimony Friday with a 5½-hour nationally televised appearance before the Senate disarmament subcommittee, a focal point of Senate ABM opposition.

And as expected, the criticism came fast and sharp, accompanied by cheers for the senators and laughter for Laird from the largely student audience that crowded into the cavernous Senate caucus room.

"Far less of a shield than a sieve," said Democrat Frank Church of Idaho of the $7 billion system President Nixon wants to deploy at 12 sites to protect the nation's deterrent missile and bomber force.

"Not a convincing case," said Chairman Albert Gore, D-Tenn. "Every witness outside the Pentagon knows it's not much good," said Arkansas' J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the parent Foreign Relations Committee.

"Cockeyed," was the comical that Laird got to show, Laird showed.

It was the only chart of several that Laird got to show, although he kept trying throughout the day to have his deputy, David Packard, give the same visual-aid rundown that had gone over so well Wednesday and Thursday with the far friendlier Armed Services Committee.

"There are a few things we want to get to first," Gore told the defense chief. But they never did get around to the charts and Gore said Packard could come before the committee with them next Wednesday.

Through it all, Laird smiled often, answering with methodical, well-formed sentences that struck a balance between the metallic, statistic-filled testimony of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the dogged repetition of policy that former Secretary of State Dean Rusk displayed.

First-Strike Capability
"The Soviets are going for a first-strike capability that can only be aimed at destroying our retaliatory force," said Laird.

"This is a deadly serious question," he said at another point when Fulbright made a quip that brought laughter.

"As secretary of defense I would take a great pride and satisfaction in presiding over the

Orders to Rioters

Kill or Harass

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If you can't kill them, harass them."

That is one of the instructions in a pamphlet distributed to area college students on how to deal with police during campus disturbances... complete with crudely drawn illustrations of how to make bombs.

It tells how a campus rioter can disable and maim police, police horses, photographers and even innocent onlookers during school disorders.

'Your Manual'

Frank L. Rizzo, city police commissioner, says the anonymously written six-page pamphlet, called "Your Manual," was distributed to 25 members of Students for a Democratic Society on the 18,000-student body campus of the University of Pennsylvania.

Along with copies went orders to circulate them widely, Rizzo said. A spokesman for SDS denied the organization has any connection with the booklet.

The booklet lists its publisher as the "3R News Service, Inc., San Francisco." No such firm is listed in the San Francisco telephone directory, however similar pamphlets with the firm also listed as publisher have appeared on the campus of San Francisco State College.

It prompts agitators to throw first at police cameramen to eliminate pictures of ensuing clashes.

Possible Weapons

The manual, Vol. 1, No. 1, gives other details on possible weapons and how to use them.

"If we are to free ourselves, we must out of necessity, strike at them as violently as they have struck at us," a preface says.

"It's terrible and outrageous," said Rizzo.

He said no attempt is being made to confiscate copies, but added he is taking steps to see whether any violation of city statute is involved in circulation.

A spokesman for the University of Pennsylvania said the pamphlet would not be banned because this would not "effectively curtail its distribution."

The initial issue promises in subsequent editions to highlight a revolutionary leader of the month, publish an assassination list, detail how to make napalm bombs and print a primer on riot logistics.

Alternative Waiting Private Vietnam Talks Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has confirmed the existence of private negotiations to end the Vietnam Conflict and said if all talks fail the administration has an "alternative" to current policies.

Laird's disclosures came as a surprise when the subject of Vietnam was raised briefly Friday during a Senate disarmament subcommittee hearing on missile defense.

To a question from Democrat J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Laird said the administration is seeking peace "not only through formal diplomatic channels formally in Paris, but privately as well."

Britain Sending Engineers to Help Anguilla

ANGUILLA (AP) — Royal engineers are on their way to Anguilla to replace Britain's sunburned Red Devils and try to save face for the Union Jack.

The Defense Ministry announced Friday night an advance party of engineers would arrive today to decide what projects might best serve the tiny Caribbean island's 6,000 inhabitants and perhaps quell the mockery raised by Britain's Bay of Pigs invasion there Wednesday.

Improvement of the partially-paved airstrip and installation of a telephone system will begin when a reinforced troop of about 100 engineers arrive within a week or so, the ministry said.

Invasion Forces
The frigate Robesau, used to land the British invasion force Wednesday morning, is to depart during the weekend, followed later by the two companies of Red Devil paratroopers who came ashore to reassert the crown's authority over the Anguillans.

Events on the island indicated Britain plans to maintain Her Majesty's grip on Anguilla.

Secessionist Acting President Ronald Webster was barred from his office in the island's administration building. British Commissioner Anthony Lee moved his papers and headquarters into the building and said he would govern the island with the aid of an advisory board of Anguillans, for several years if necessary.

Bobby Contingent
British cargo planes shuttled back and forth Friday, bringing military supplies and squad cars for a contingent of 40 London Bobbies who have replaced the local police.

Adding its voice to a chorus of foreign and domestic criticism heaped on Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government after the invasion, the U.N. Special Committee on Colonialism pronounced itself "gravely concerned" by the British occupation and resolved to send a team of investigators to Anguilla.

Britain, which boycotted the committee's meeting Friday, was expected to bar the team from the island.

Plane Was not Carrying Food to Biafra, Officials Say

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigerian air force MIGs downed their first transport plane at Biafra's Annabelle airstrip, reliable sources said today.

Gerry Dyrrsen, Swedish director of the International Committee of the Red Cross airlift into Biafra from Cotonu, said the transport crashed four or five nights ago at the makeshift airport near the Niger river. He said the plane was not one of the Red Cross aircraft ferrying food and medicine to the secessionist state.

Nigerian air force sources said a DC-3 twin-engine transport crashed after a Nigerian MIG shot up the airstrip with a 37mm cannon. They said the plane struck one of the carter's lost part of its landing gear and flipped. The pilot was identified as a South African.

No Report
There has been no report from the Biafrans about the crash or casualties. DC-3 planes have been known to fly to Biafra from Libreville, Gabon, reportedly with arms shipments.

Official Nigerian sources had no comment on the crash report. But other Soviet-built MIGs at night marked a new phase in the air war over the airstrip that has been a major terminal for relief shipments and military supplies into Biafra.

Rockets Hold on for 81-78 Victory Over Glendale Quint In Thrilling Semi-Final Tilt

MADISON — "When we had Rocket sizable margin the pre the big lead we started hiding vious day around outside. We didn't go inside. we didn't execute."

Einerson said his team did a good job defensively in the second and third quarters and he had special praise for the bench Tom Ponto, a starting guard, didn't play at all because of illness, but he could have been used if needed, the coach said. His place was capably filled by Bob Block.

The Rocket mentor added that the team was seriously hurt on the boards when both Tom Koepke and Jim Hoelzel fouled out early in the fourth period. With their departure, Nicolet's rebounding strength improved.

"Who would you rather play in the finals?" a reporter queried, referring to a possible all-Fox Cities championship against Kimberly. Einerson said he didn't care who it would be, all he wanted was to play the championship game.

Seek Two Goals

When asked if early in the season he had thought the Rockets would be in the championship at its end, he declared that he told the boys they should seek two goals — to win the Fox River Valley Conference championship and to get in the state tournament.

"As the year progressed, our confidence built up and we were able to realize both of them," he said.

Einerson told the post-game assemblage of scribes that Neenah has a fine group of boys who are excellent students and have a good attitude. He added that Neenah had to have a strong club to get through the Fox River Valley Conference.

"We needed five seconds more," Nicolet coach Tom Puls lamented outside the Knights' dressing room at the same time. "You can't save it. We did. We had too much energy left at the end," he continued.

"We got beat by a good team. We didn't lose because of what we did wrong, but rather because of what they did right," Puls went on.

Press Didn't Work

Puls said the press didn't work effectively until late in the game when the Knights made their big charge. "I thought they lost their composure a little and they missed shots they should have been making," he explained.

The Nicolet mentor thought that Neenah was loose at the beginning while his team was more tense and shots that were dropping through the hoop against Milwaukee Lincoln the day before weren't connecting against the Rockets.

Replaying the game briefly he said maybe he should have stayed in a zone defense instead of going into the man-for-man in the third period when the Rockets constructed their big lead.

Puls explained that this was the first close game that the Braveland Conference entry had lost in two years. Noting that they usually won or lost by big margins.

Pick Townsend Vikes' MVP

Hickerson Named Captain; Childs Best Rebounder

Senior Bob Townsend has been selected as the most valuable player for the 1968-69 season for the Lawrence University basketball team, according to Coach John Poulson.

Townsend, who was a unanimous first team choice for the all-Midwest Conference team had a total of 420 points during the season, an average of 21 per game. He also was the leading scorer in the Midwest Conference and the fifth Lawrence cager in history to have over 1,000 points for his career.

Townsend currently ranks fourth on Lawrence's all-time scoring list.

Another senior, Brad Childs, received the rebounding award. Childs, a 6-9 center, set an all-time Lawrence record with 366 rebounds. He averaged 18.3 rebounds a game and had a 14.5 average.

Junior Karl Hickerson was elected team captain for the 1969-70 season and also received the team free throw accuracy award. Hickerson had 23 of 26 from the free throw line, for 88.5 per cent, and ended the season with a string of 13 straight.

Sophomore Bob Black received the team spirit award.

Lawrence had a 9-11 season record, winning eight of 11 home games, but failing to a 1-8 mark on the road. The Vikes averaged 69.6 points a game compared to 70.7 for opponents.

Heart Failure Fells Higgins At Age 59

DALLAS (AP) — Former Boston Red Sox Manager Michael "Pinkie" Higgins, American League Manager of the Year in 1955, is dead at the age of 59.

A spokesman at St. Paul's Hospital said Higgins died Friday afternoon shortly after he was admitted to the emergency room with a heart ailment.

Higgins' death came only two days after he had been released from prison at Francisville, La., where he served two months of a four-year term on a negligent homicide charge.

Higgins pleaded guilty to a charge that his automobile killed a highway worker in 1968. Police said Higgins was driving while intoxicated.

Under Louisiana law, a first offender may be considered for parole at any time if his sentence is less than five years.

Higgins broke into the major leagues in 1930 with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Red Sox were rated a second-division team when Higgins took the helm in 1955 but he guided them to a fourth-place finish and was named Manager of the Year.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, pending arrival of relatives from overseas.

Menomonee Falls Cage Coach Resigns

MENOMONEE FALLS (AP) — Bill Young, basketball coach at Menomonee Falls for the last 15 years, resigned as coach Thursday, but will remain at the school as a teacher.

Young's team won the Braveland Conference title this season and won or tied for the title five other times during his coaching career there.

MADISON — Neenah's Rockets are for real folks and if you don't believe it turn on your television sets or visit the University of Wisconsin Fieldhouse at 7:30 p.m. today and you'll see them playing Beloit for the state high school basketball championship.

Because a prep game is 32 minutes long and not 32 minutes and 10 seconds, the Rockets are in the Super Bowl or World Series of Wisconsin high school basketball.

Coach Ron Einerson's forces built up an 18-point lead in the third period, couldn't stand prosperity and had to withstand one of the most furious fourth periods (33 points worth) in state meet history to edge Glendale Nicolet 81-78 in the semi-finals Friday afternoon.

The losers came within one point with seven seconds left.

17-Point Bulge

Neenah carried a seemingly comfortable 17-point bulge into the final frame and appeared to be cruising into the title game.

Steve Bazelon, who played a decreased difference by two with two gitters at 58 seconds. The Rockets lost a chance to rebuild their total when John Arpin failed on a free throw and Bob Block made one of two for a 79-74 lead with still a half-minute to be run off on the clock.

Theft of Pass

Jim Bronson, who came to life in the fourth period, kept his team alive by hitting a jump shot with 17 seconds left and after a theft pass, Bazelon uncorked a long jumper with seven seconds left for a 1-point difference.

But, the miracle wasn't to be realized and Nicolet didn't get the ball again. Schultz was fouled at the horn and he put in the 80th and 81st points while his coach and teammates were accepting congratulations from well wishers.

In the end, it was balanced scoring, a strong bench and another productive third period which were the decisive factors.

Guard Tom Ponto didn't play at all because of illness, but Block responded by hitting 17 points including six baskets in only seven first period attempts.

Tom Koepke and Jim Hoelzel, who tied Kopitzke for rebounding honors, fouled out with 6:18 and 5:26, respectively but the bench came through with Schultz, Brain Cannon and Dave Wagner all playing well.

A 23-13 edge in the third quarter gave the locals the cushion they had to have in the last period. Neenah led 39-32 at halftime saw Nicolet trim the difference to four with the first three points after the intermission but came on strong to tally 13 of the next 15.

The Rockets returned to their press which they disregarded in the tourney opener against Wausau and it again took its toll. The Knights countered with similar tactics when they saw the winners were moving out of range, but it didn't pay off until the last quarter. Led by Block and Hawley, who combined for 10 of the teams 14 field goals, the Twin Citizens hit well over the zone in the first half.

Second Crown

Neenah, which will be seeking its second state crown but the first in 39 years, was led by Hawley's 19 points, boosting his total to 100 in the last five.

The situation began to look serious when Nicolet trimmed the score to 70-66 with 2:45 left to play, but two pressure baskets by Pat Hawley boosted the spread to eight points again.

Then the leak in the flood gates began to widen and Nicolet banged in a string of six points to chop the difference to 74-72 with 1:27 left in the game.

Road Hunting Law to be Aired At Hearings

MADISON (AP) — A ban against gun shooting of deer and bear within 20 feet of any hard surfaced road in Wisconsin will be considered at public hearings Monday.

The prohibition is among a list of items on the agenda prepared by the Department of Natural Resources for meetings in all counties.

Results of county sessions are compiled for consideration by the Natural Resources Board, which establishes hunting and fishing regulations.

In the past, as many as 8,000 hunters and fishermen have voted on proposed rules. Each county meeting will select Conservation Congress delegates for the annual congress meeting later.

Wrightstown's Ribarchek Included 11 Athletes get UW Grants

MADISON — Wisconsin football coach, John Coatta, reported Friday that 11 high school athletes from four states have accepted University of Wisconsin grant-and-aid scholarships and will enroll here in September.

Seven of the athletes are Wisconsin high school standouts, including Tom Ribarchek, 6-3, 220 pound Wrightstown fullback.

Others from Wisconsin are Durand's Ken Harmon, 6-1, 190, and New Berlin's Tom Koch, 6-3, 210-ends; Hartford's Mike Fraundorf, 6-2, 215, and Greenwood's Darwin Vollrath, 6-4, 215-ends; Middleton's Mike Pas-sim, 6-3, 205 pound center and Colfax's Larry Knudtson, 6-1, 190 pound halfback.

Two outstanding players from Chicago's Marist High Schools, who signed are Mike (mountain) Mayer, a 6-4, 265 pound tackle, and Dave Lokanc, a 6-1, 212 pound fullback, both of whom received Illinois All-State honors.

An outstanding quarterback, announcing for Wisconsin is Roger "Rocky" Whitworth, 6-1, 182, pounder from Colorado Springs, Colorado who also excels in hockey as a center. He was an All-Colo-rado choice last fall when he threw 27 touchdown passes and in one game ran for five touchdowns and passed for two others.

Another key signee is Rufus "Roadrunner" Ferguson, a 5-8, 195 pound speedster from Kilbuck High School in Miami, Florida. He has turned in a 9.6 second time in the 100-yard dash and is rated by many observers as another Buddy Young.

Ribarchek was Player of the Year in his conference and was named Back of the Week by the Associated Press following a six touchdown performance last autumn.

Bud Sommerville Rink Surprised by Swedes in Match

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — Sweden upset the Superior, Wis., team, skipped by Bill Sommerville, 9-8 Friday and threw the Americans into a second-place deadlock with Scotland going into the final round of the world curling championships.

The loss, after a 15-3 victory over Switzerland Friday morning, left the U.S. tied with Scotland at 5-2 in the preliminary tournament.

They faced each other today, with the winner meeting Canada, 6-1, in an afternoon title game.

Mullins Hits 26 Warriors Hold Back Bucks' Late Charge

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors drove off repeated Milwaukee charges Friday night to hold the fort and down the National Basketball Association club 103-100.

The Bucks swept aside a 10-point first half advantage, and did similar damage to the Warriors' 14-point final-quarter lead.

The Bucks got within four points in the final frame, but San Francisco held fast.

Jeff Mullins and Rudy La Russo were the work horses in the first half as the Warriors, trailing by six points, pulled ahead for the first time at 15-14, and led 48-44 at halftime.

In the third period, the Bucks tied it up at 49-49 on a bucket by Len Chappell. A basket by teammate Don Smith put Milwaukee in front, but La Russo's free throw soon got the Warriors in the lead again 52-51.

Chappell came through with 10 points in the third period, but the production was offset by Mullins' 12 points.

Mullins led game scoring with 26 points. Reserve Bill Turner added 23, including 12 in the second quarter.

Flynn Robinson led the Bucks with 20 points. His six-point spurge cut the Warriors' eight-point lead to two before the Warriors were off again and running late in the first half.

The victory assured San Francisco of at least a .500 record for the NBA season.

Milwaukee, 25-55 and assured of last place in the Eastern Division, has two games left—to-night at San Diego and Sunday at Phoenix.

Beloit Pulls Away in Last Period

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The Kimberly Papermakers saw their dreams of a state championship evaporate in a nightmare of fouls and free throws, as Beloit exploded for a 30-14 advantage in the final period en route to a 70-56 come-back victory in the semi-finals before 14,200 fans Friday night.

Kimberly was slated to meet Nicolet, an 81-78 loser to Neenah, in a battle for third place beginning at 3:15 p.m. today.

Last night's setback was the first of the season for Kimberly.

The No. 2 ranked Papermakers and No. 1 ranked Purple Knights each had entered the game with 24-0 records.

It also marked the second straight year that Beloit had upended Kimberly in the semi-finals. The Knights won last season, 73-60.

"I think we showed fantastic poise," Beloit coach Bernie Barkin said afterwards. "We had to use three different offenses before we got the ball into Brown (Bruce)."

Brown, the Knights' 6-7 star pivot, was limited to six points in the first half but broke loose for 24 in the second half. He connected on eight of 10 field goal tries and 14 of 17 foul shots for his game high total of 30 points. His 17 rebounds were also tops.

Coach Jack Wippich of the Papermakers refused post game questioning from the press. A team spokesman reported that Wippich had offered only: "We got beat and that's it."

Kimberly actually led at the ends of the first three quarters by scores of 13-8, 25-20, and 42-40. But then excessive fouling, some missed layups and the irrepressible Brown began catching up with the Papermakers.

During the final period, three Kimberly players — Don Hagany, Bill Lamers, and Jeff Wildenberg — had to sit down with their fifth personal. Hagany left the earliest with 5:48 to go. The other two went out with less than two minutes remaining when the issue had already been decided.

During those agonizing last eight minutes, a total of 10 fouls were called against Kimberly in contrast to just three against Beloit. The Knights took advantage to hit on 14 of 15 charity attempts to help seal the triumph.

For the ball game, the winners had 13 personals whistled against them to 25 for Kimberly. The Papermakers lost the contest on the free throw line, where they made a highly respectable 14 of 17 attempts but Beloit swished 30 of 38 chances to offset Kimberly's 21-20 advantage in field goals.

Kimberly, despite a distinct disadvantage, still had a 40-36 edge in the final rebound totals.

Key Factor

Another key factor in the Kimberly defeat was its mediocre shooting from the floor. The team which had shot 62.5 per cent the night before in beating Durand fell to a 32.3 per cent mark against the Knights.

Beloit continued a hot pace from its win over Eau Claire Memorial for a 48.8 percentage. A good illustration of how cold Kimberly was from the floor

Bullets Wrap up Eastern Division Title With Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Baltimore Bullets, the ugly ducklings of 1968, are the glamorous Cinderella team of 1969 in the National Basketball Association.

over would you do anything different," the coach was asked. "No, only except get a few more points," was his reply.

The Rockets are making their fourth championship game appearance. They lost to Superior 19-9 in 1920, won the state crown by beating Racine Horlick 28-5 in 1930, and lost to Watertown in the Class B finals in 1939.

Neenah also is attempting to become the second straight FRVC member to take the title by succeeding Manitowoc and become the first Twin City team to cop the first prize since Menasha's 1953 achievement.

Both Ole Jorgenson, who coached Neenah's 1930 entry, and Eric Kitzman, who directed the Bluejays to their crown, are among the interested spectators.

Last year *Manitowoc defeated Neenah in the sectional finals and went on to the state title. This year Neenah de-throned the Ships in the sectional and now attempt to duplicate the latter's feat. The pattern also is similar in that Beloit also beat Kimberly in the semi-finals in 1968, an accomplishment it duplicated last night.

It takes a state tournament to bring out the best in a youngster as illustrated by the performance of Neenah's Bob Block.

He didn't get into a varsity game until late in the season, had never even started a jayvee game but started for the ailing Tom Ponto in the semi-finals of the big show and scored 17 points and showed a great deal of poise in bringing down the ball with Pat Hawley.

Fease Will Captain Vike Swim Team

John Fease, of Rhinelander, has been named captain of the Lawrence University swimming team for the 1970 season, according to coach Gene Davis.

Fease, who set two Midwest Conference records as a sophomore, saw limited action during the 1969 campaign due to a bout with mononucleosis.

Senior Tocher Mitchell, 1969 team captain, received a trophy for being high point man in the past season. Mitchell had 116 1/2 points.

Freedom Scouts Plan Third Pancake Supper

FREEDOM — The third annual Boy Scout pancake and porky supper will be served from 4 to 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the grade school.

Price is adults $1 and children 50 cents.

The Bullets clinched the Eastern Division championship by whipping the Chicago Bulls 115-103 Friday night. They thus became only the second team in NBA history to jump from last to first in one season. Indianapolis did it in 1950.

Paced by Earl Monroe's 41 points, the Bullets pulled away in the last five minutes with a string of 12 straight points that broke an 89-89 tie.

Gene Shue, the happy Baltimore coach, gave full credit to Monroe. "The turning point in our success came last year when Monroe assumed the leadership of the team after we traded Don Ohl to the Hawks," he said.

Johnson Injured
"Everyone thought we would fold two months ago when Gus Johnson, our leading rebounder, was injured," continued Shue as he was doused with champagne by his players in the dressing room at Chicago.

"But we not only came back, we did even better than anyone expected. Monroe has been unbelievable this year and his play has given this team the lift that it needed. As a team, I've never seen such a complete effort."

The New York Knicks, fighting to overtake Philadelphia for second place, crept within one game of the 76ers by routing the Phoenix Suns 139-104.

Boston walloped Cincinnati 145-119, Detroit downed Seattle 110-104, San Francisco edged Milwaukee 103-100 and Los Angeles scored a 116-103 victory over Atlanta in other NBA games.

Sam Jones' 23 points paced the easy Boston victory over the Royals. Dave Gambee tallied 32 points in leading Detroit over Seattle. Dave Bing of Detroit got four assists to set a club record of 531 in one season. Shue held the old mark of 530, set in 1961, before he became the Baltimore coach.

80-Point Period
The Knicks exploded for an 80-point second half to rout the Suns behind a balanced attack led by Dave DeBusschere and Walt Frazier, both with 24. Jeff Mullins paced San Francisco over the Bucks with 26 points.

The Lakers held an Elgin Baylor Night and the veteran 34-year-old Laker captain responded with 21 points against Atlanta.

Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the NBA, and Baylor's parents were among those who honored Baylor in a 40-minute ceremony before the game. The former Seattle University star received numerous gifts, including a lifetime NBA pass and a car.

Miami edged Oakland 124-122, Denver beat Houston 133-123, New Orleans trounced New York 138-110 and Kentucky trampled Minnesota 127-104 in the American Basketball Association.

FVSCC to Hold Rallye Sunday

The Fox Valley Sports Car Club will hold the "Last Chance" rallye Sunday afternoon.

The start will be at Biddle Motors, Highway 41, Neenah. Registration will be from 12 noon to 1 p.m., and the first car will be out at 1 p.m. The rallye will end in the Oshkosh area.

This Was Part of the Neenah High School cheering section as the Rockets played Glendale Nicolet in the state high school basketball tournament semi-finals at Madison Friday afternoon. Neenah staved off a Nicolet rally for a 3-point victory 81-78. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Beloit Pulls Away to Top Papermakers

came late in the third period, when the Papermakers were still enjoying a 41-35 lead. At that point, Kimberly made a pair of brilliant steals, but Lamers missed a layup and Wayne Swokowski couldn't net the easy rebound on one play, and Ristau missed on a short jumper on the other.

Two baskets then could have meant a 10-point Papermaker spread. Instead, Beloit rallied for five points in succession to range within one marker at 41-40.

Twin bright spots for the Papermakers were Jeff Wildenberg and Robin Ristau, who combined for 40 of Kimberly's 56 points. The former had 22 markers mostly on corner jump shots, and the latter bagged 18 behind some tenacious rebounding and high-arched jump shots over Brown.

The turning point came in the first 35 seconds of the last quarter when Brown got losses underneath for a layup and was fouled by Lamers. He canned the free throw, too, to put Beloit back in front, 43-42, for the first time since the Knights had held an early 7-6 margin.

Hagany then picked up his last two fouls in a span of 27 seconds, and Brown and Lamont Weaver added two free throws apiece for a 47-42 Beloit lead. Ristau's jumper cut the margin back to three, but the Knights still had too much momentum and gradually pulled ahead by a 58-50 margin. The nearest Kimberly got after that was 61-54 with 1:28 remaining.

Foot Race Out For Council Seat

COLBERT, Okla. (AP) — W.W. Brockett and Ollie Weger won't run a foot race to decide a City Council seat after all.

The two men drew 118 votes each in Tuesday's election. Weger suggested a foot race with the winner getting the council seat.

However, Harry Butcher, chairman of the Bryan County Election Board, pointed out that the law says tie votes must be decided by lottery. The type of lottery hasn't been decided but a foot race definitely isn't a lottery, he said.

Brockett is 68 and Weger is 67 years old.

Appleton 'Y' Grade Cagers Tip Oshkosh

Paul Calloway led the winners with 20 points, while Billy King had 12 to top the losers.

McDowell Seeking 20 Wins

By TED MEIER

Sam McDowell, the strikeout king of the American League, has set his sights on becoming a 20-game winning pitcher for the Cleveland Indians this season.

McDowell, a 26-year-old left-hander, rang up 283 strikeouts last year and, while he had a tidy earned run average of 1.81, he also led the AL in giving bases on balls, 10.

This tendency to wildness got McDowell in trouble on numerous occasions and turned what might have been a great season into just an ordinary one. He finished with a 15-14 record.

"I'm concentrating this year on keeping the ball down," he said after pitching five scoreless innings as he and Jack Hamilton combined for a four-hit 3-0 shutout of California in an exhibition game Friday.

McDowell's concentration apparently is doing fine. He did not issue a pass in the five innings he worked against the Angels, while yielding three hits and striking out only one.

Tony Horton's sacrifice fly and a home run by Duke Sims gave Cleveland two runs in the sixth and gained Hamilton the victory. Hamilton was touched for just one hit in four innings.

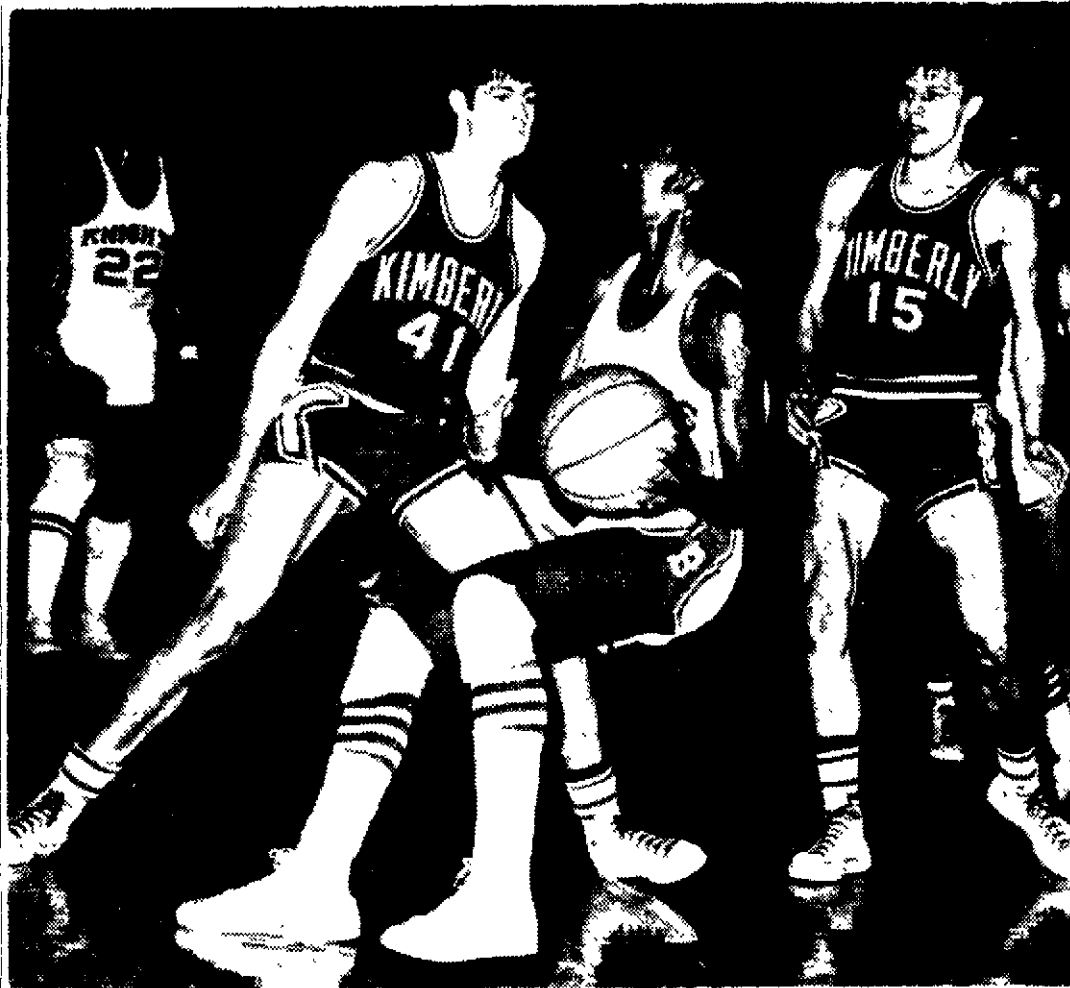

Los Angeles snapped the six-game winning streak of the New York Yankees 9-0 in a night game and St. Louis had ended the five-game streak of the New York Mets 5-3.

Wes Parker's two-run homer in the second gave the Dodgers all the runs they needed as Don Drysdale, Bob Darwin and Jim Brewer yielded only four singles to the Yankees. An error by third baseman Amos Otis led to three St. Louis runs in the seventh as the Cardinals came from behind to down the Mets.

Baltimore erupted for 11 runs in a big fifth inning and went on to rout Washington 11-2 in a night game. A ninth-inning homer by rookie infielder Syd O'Brien gave Boston a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox and Detroit also came up with a ninth-inning rally to defeat Philadelphia 4-2.

Willie Mays clouted a two-run homer and Juan Marichal scattered six hits over six innings as they paced San Francisco over San Diego 9-6.

In other games, Oakland walloped the Chicago Cubs 15-8, Cincinnati downed Pittsburgh 5-3, Houston took Montreal 5-2, Minnesota edged Kansas City 3-2 and Cleveland's 'B' squad beat Seattle 10-9.

Robin Ristau (41) and Gene Loiselle (15) of Kimberly High School closed in on Lamont Weaver of Beloit as the latter tried to pass the ball to Dave Kilgore (22) in the background. The Papermakers fell behind in the last quarter and dropped a 70-56 decision to the undefeated Knights. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Bronson added 21 points, but the next best total for Nicolet was seven. The two big scorers and Arpin 11. Kopitzke, was accounted for 29 of the 33 last period points.

Neenah again shot well hitting 47.5 per cent from the floor on refused to leave the game. 29 of 61. Nicolet made 52 per cent of its chances with 29 field scoring honors with 34 points on goals in 56 tries. The difference 12 baskets in 18 attempts and 10 came on the free throw line free throws in 13 tries. He also where the winners had a 23-20 bagged 21 rebounds, 15 more edge. Nicolet commanded the than anyone else on the floor. boards by a scant 42-40 margin.

Recreation Unit Clarifies Policy on Muni Golf Loops

Editor, Post-Crescent:
In response to several requests for information concerning the policy of the Appleton Parks and Recreation Commission with respect to golf leagues at Reid Municipal Golf Course, we submit the attached statement, which has been adopted by the Commission.

either 4:30 p.m. or 5:15 p.m. starting times (or earlier than 4:30 where convenient).
(c) Have your league (not just the committee) meet with the Golf Professional before the season to go over rules of play and ideas to speed up play. (The clubhouse at the course can be made available for such meetings at no cost, through the Supervisor of Recreation or the Golf Professional.)

The Commission recognizes that the establishment of these policies will create disappointment for some, relief for others. It also recognizes that the simple act of sanctioning some golf leagues does not preclude the others from organizing and using the course in competition with those that are sanctioned. Obviously to do so will only ruin the season for the sanctioned, the unsanctioned and also the fellow who does not happen to be able to be in a league at all.

The Commission hopes, by these policies, to be able to permit the league play that has become part of Appleton's golf tradition and still not absolutely preclude the occasional golfer who can only get out after work once in a while.

Vacationland Promotion for License Plates Stirs Debate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state legislature has shown that it wants to add a reference to the Wisconsin tourist industry to the "dairyland" advertising carried on Wisconsin motor vehicle registration plates, but it is having its troubles in agreeing on the best phraseology.

The senate has approved a bill to replace "America's Dairyland" on the plates with "Vacation in Dairyland."

But when Assemblyman Lew Mithun of Janesville Thursday won a narrow vote of approval to change the slogan to "Vacation in America's Dairyland", other legislators complained that the verbiage would be excessive and the letters on the small plates so small as to be illegible at typical driving distances, and the bill was returned to the assembly highways committee for further consideration.

A series of test votes, however, have indicated that a majority of the legislature wants to call attention to Wisconsin vacation opportunities through the use of the vehicle plates.

Regents Take Action State Universities Ban Additional Illinois Freshmen Enrollments

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A temporary ban on additional freshman enrollments from Illinois has been slapped on the nine-campus state university system by the Board of Regents of State Universities.

The restriction on additional freshmen and transfer student applications, will remain in effect for at least one month, until the board has an opportunity to consider an as-yet undrafted proposal for a per campus limitation on Illinois students in the system.

The action was needed, the board was told by system director Eugene R. McPhee, because Illinois has repeatedly rejected offers to join in an interstate compact for the exchange of students with Wisconsin.

Minnesota Agreement

Minnesota, the second largest contributor of nonresident students to the state university system, has entered into such an agreement.

Illinois this year contributes almost half of the 7,800 out-of-state students in the 58,000 graduates, and 549 of them are student state university system, from Illinois.

The board action was unanimous, said McPhee.

Applications received to date from would-be Illinois freshmen already have hit 1,604, he told the board.

Pressure at OSU

At some schools, such as Oshkosh State University, the Illinois application rate for next fall is running twice as strong as it did last year at this time, according to McPhee.

The action was urged on the board by Regent Siimo Wessmann of Superior, who claimed that some Illinois public colleges have closed enrollments for the coming year and are advising Illinois students they are now turning away to try to get into Wisconsin's college system.

University of Wisconsin Board of Regents. That unit on March 14 voted to cut back out-of-state admissions of new freshmen starting next year, until an eventual 15 per cent out of state admission rate is hit.

Action Endorse

The action of the state university regents was endorsed by the action of the state university regents was endorsed by WSU-Superior President Karl Meyer, who spoke for all of the state university presidents.

Illinois students are "flooding" the system, he said.

The action will most drastically affect the Whitewater and Platteville campuses of the state university system. All will be affected to some degree, however.

At Oshkosh this year there are 779 out-of-state understate students in the 58,000 graduates, and 549 of them are student state university system, from Illinois.

The board action was unanimous, said McPhee.

Applications received to date from would-be Illinois freshmen already have hit 1,604, he told the board.

William E. Krause, 23, 209 E. North St., forfeited a $54 bond Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a disorderly conduct charge brought by Appleton police.

A patrolman said he observed Krause move his car backward and forward in an attempt to prevent a 19-year-old girl from crossing S. Oneida Street, in the Flats, about 7:45 p.m. March 15.

Governmental Cost Picture Called Faulty

Education Cheaper Than It Appears, Tarr Tells Democrats

MENASHA — Education does not cost local governments as much as the people think it does and, by the same token, other governmental services cost more than people believe.

This, Dr. Curtis Tarr, Lawrence University president, said, is the result of an outmoded tax sharing system in Wisconsin.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Outagamie and Winnebago county Democratic parties Thursday night, Tarr said Wisconsin is below the national average in aid to elementary and secondary education and the aid system makes it appear "we are less interested in education than in other things in this state."

Tarr indirectly criticized town governments in particular for projecting this cost philosophy.

He said almost all of the shared taxes go into the local government's general fund to be applied against general government cost and none is applied against school costs. As a result, he said, the town can claim its local operations don't cost the taxpayers anything while education costs are high.

Education aids are currently based on the property value per pupil in a school district.

A World of Broken Promises

Parents Often Causes Of Delinquency, PTA Told

"So many of our kids can't trust their own parents... so they figure, why trust anyone else?"

"Their lives have been filled with a long string of broken promises," Roland Hershman, superintendent of the school for boys at Wales, told the Highland School PTA at a meeting Thursday night.

"Unless I establish a torture chamber, I couldn't do some of the things parents have done to them."

"You don't have to feed your kids with a lot of jargon or the perils of drug abuse — just tell them its against the law... period!"

Hershman made these observations and cited actual case histories of young boys with bad family backgrounds.

Black Picture

Hershman, whose school is for delinquent boys between the ages of 12 and 18, painted a bleak picture of the role some parents play in raising children.

He described some of the physical torture parents put their young boys through for punishment, venting their own frustrations, or showing plain lack of adult stability and reasoning.

Hershman said many boys sent to Wales have serious emotional problems in addition to having been judged delinquent.

While the majority come from poor families, Hershman was quick to add others are the sons of middle class and wealthy parents.

World of Parents

"The world is no more false than the world of my parents," Hershman quoted one of the boys at Wales as telling him, adding this had been heard many times from many boys.

"We find that a lot of our kids have a make-believe dream of their families," Hershman said, explaining reality was too dreadful for them to bear.

Hershman told of the counseling program at Wales and said about 87 per cent of the boys who have been there grow up and do not become entangled with the law.

"We let the boys know there is someone concerned about them and their future," Hersh-man said. "And we provide them with the basic things in life such as decent food, clean bedding and someone to talk to."

Hershman deplored the lack of interest on the part of some parents even after their boys are at Wales, declaring this added to the disappointment of the youngsters.

"We often find our boys ignore the facts," Hershman commented, "because they judge the future by the way the past has been to them."

He said one reason physical and other forms of punishment are ineffective in the case of many young boys was because they are able to "block it out in their mind."

Used to Punishment

Hershman said some boys who come to Wales have had a lot of punishment in life, and are accustomed to handling it.

"Some of these kids have gone through torture mills," Hershman said as he listed actual incidents which are unbelievable, but true to life.

"I happen to believe brutality breeds brutality," Hershman said.

He said there are many ways to help delinquent boys with their problems — personal and family — and get them back on the right path.

And he said that work is too important to use as a punishment when parents believe a youngster has been bad.

Work is Honorable

"Work is honorable, good and important," Hershman declared.

He said Wales attempts to provide boys with the things every boy should have when growing up so he can be a productive citizen and good father.

Educational and vocational courses are available to the boys at Wales, Hershman said, leading to diplomas.

"But a diploma can be a pretty empty piece of paper without anyone around to care," he added.

Hershman said the number of boys sent to Wales who have been involved in drug abuse is minimal. However, he personally felt it has become a serious problem requiring the cooperation of "good parents and good law enforcement agencies."

Students May Phase Into Higher Fees

Regents Consider 'Grandfather Clause' For Out of Staters

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Any massive fee hike for out of state students in the state university system should include a "grandfather clause" allowing students already here to phase into the higher fees, according to the system's Board of Regents.

The board was reacting to a suggestion of finance committee of the state Coordinating Council for Higher Education (CCHHE) to push for sizable fee hikes for non-residents in Wisconsin's public colleges.

The finance committee has endorsed a plan calling for all out of state undergraduates in state schools to pay a tuition rate equalling 100 per cent of the cost of instruction.

Out of state graduate students should be required to pay 75 per cent of their instructional costs, the finance committee agreed.

The plan should be backed, but a change should be made to allow students from other states already enrolled in the state university system to have altered fee schedules calling for increases of smaller sizes than those charged new students, according to the board.

Many students have school budgets set for some time in advance and could not afford the immediate fee jump, which could range up to $500 for undergraduates, the board said in a resolution.

The board also approved the final agreement necessary to start an interstate student exchange compact with Minnesota this summer.

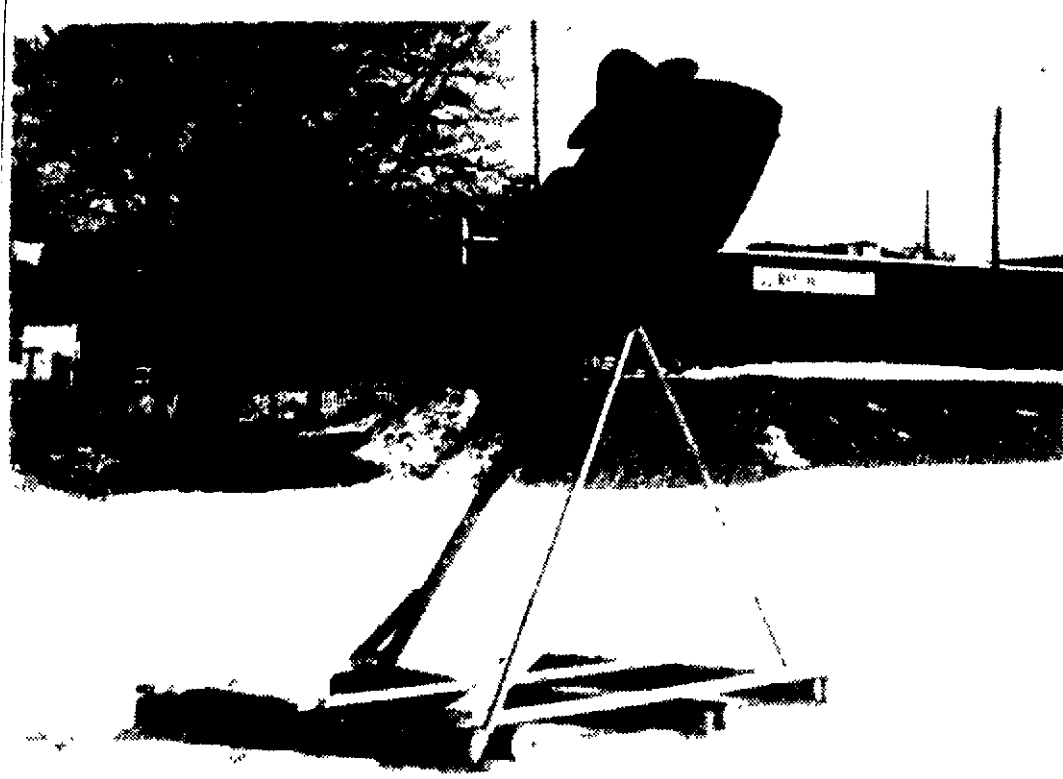

Under the program 300 Minnesota students will be allowed to enroll in the future in three Wisconsin state universities at the fee levels charged Wisconsin students.

A like number of Wisconsin students will be allowed to cross the border and attend selected Minnesota schools at their in-state fee levels.

Included on the Wisconsin side of the border are the campuses in LaCrosse, River Falls and Superior.

The numbers set are based on the level of Minnesota student enrollment in the state university system this year. There are now 1,043 such students attending the three schools. The number of students allowed to take part in the compact can be raised up to 700 in the future.

LaCrosse will be entitled to 24 compact students this summer and each term thereafter. Superior can enroll 30 such students, and River Falls is entitled to 246 of them.

CESA 10 Schools to Seek Funds for Teacher Aides

District Urged to Survey Needs, Aide Recruiting Program Begun

BRILLION — Administrators within the Cooperative Educational Service Agency 10 (CESA 10) have been asked to identify the immediate needs of their school district as to critical teacher-teacher and shortage in order to determine whether the agency can qualify for funding of projects designed to attract teachers.

The request was made this week at a CESA 10 Advisory Council of School Administrators here.

Dr. Allen Slagle, assistant superintendent of public instruction, who presented information on the federal Education Professions Development Act, indicated that a survey of the needs of the communities could be the first step in qualifying for funds.

Going hand in hand with the request of the needs, an appeal has been made to individuals of each community interested and qualified for a teacher aide program, to get in touch with the local district administrator of CESA 10 office.

Qualifications for a teacher aide includes:

- Must be 21 years of age.
- Have completed high school or its equivalent.
- Demonstrates proficiency in reading, writing, speaking and computing.

Have not been employed as a teacher aide within the calendar year preceding the beginning of the proposed program.

—Agree to complete a subsequent in-service training program.

Wittenberg Area to Get Natural Gas

WITTENBERG — The Public Service Commission (PSC) has authorized the Wisconsin Fuel and Light Company to extend their gas services east from Wausau to Ringle, Hatley, Wittenberg, El and Birnamwood and Tigerton.

The company also expects to receive the authorization from the Federal Power Commission for the cross-country portion of the gas facilities within the next 30 days.

The survey group of Wisconsin Fuel and Light are working in the Marathon County area between Wausau and Birnamwood at present. Installation of gas mains in the communities is expected to start as soon as authorization is received from the Federal Power Commission.

The Wisconsin Fuel and Light firm is the sixth largest gas utility in the state and serves natural gas to four cities, including Wausau, eight villages and 25 towns.

Calumet Coroner Rules Asphyxia In Baby's Death

CHILTON — Death of three-month old Laurie Boehlein, who was dead on arrival Thursday morning at Calumet Memorial Hospital, was caused by asphyxia from an external object.

The ruling was made Friday by Leroy Hughes, Calumet County coroner following an autopsy.

Hughes said it was impossible to tell what the object was. He noted a clenched fist under the chin, being wedged against the side of the basinette or even a blanket could have caused suffocation.

The baby was taken to the hospital by ambulance after its mother, Janet Boehlein, route 1, discovered the baby unconscious after returning from work. The baby's aunt was staying with the child.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Pfeiffer Funeral Home.

Democrats Term 7th District Crucial

WAUSAU (AP) — A special April 1 election to select the congressional successor to Melvin R. Laird was described Friday night by former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as the opening shot in a crucial political season for Democrats.

"This is the first test in a very critical year," Humphrey told 600 persons at a $10-a-plate campaign dinner for David Obey, a state assemblyman nominated for the 7th Congressional District seat.

Obey, a Wausau Democrat, faces Republican state Sen. Walter J. Chilsen of Wausau for the seat vacated when Laird became secretary of defense. Laird represented the traditionally Republican district since 1952.

The Obey-Chilsen election, Humphrey said, has importance that will be felt "far beyond the jurisdiction of the 7th Congressional District."

Next 16 Months
"In my judgment," he said, "the next 16 months will not only determine the shape of Congress in 1970, but the presidential race in 1972."

And, he continued, "We haven't had much testing so far."

Humphrey said the district's election drew him back to the campaign trail sooner than he had expected after losing his presidential bid in November to Richard M. Nixon.

Referring to his new teaching assignments at the University of Minnesota and Macalester College in St. Paul, he said he had prepared "for the rough and tumble of classmates, and that was about all."

"I hadn't planned to make a political speech so soon this year until I heard Dave Obey was going to run," he said.

Experienced Man
Humphrey said Obey, a four-term legislator, is typical of the type of financially experienced lawmakers needed in Congress.

"We need men in Congress who have grappled with tax reforms of their states, men who can fashion tax revisions of the federal system, and redirect growth to the forgotten corners of the nation," he said.

The former vice president spoke also but about his personal politics, comparing his 1968 presidential campaign on strife-troubled campuses to the collegiate peace he said he had known years earlier.

"I used to teach 25 years ago, and it was so nice," Humphrey said. "It was a meadow of meditation."

Then came the presidential campaign, he said.

"Our young men and women are asking some very serious questions, and some of them get out of hand," Humphrey remarked. "I took my riot training last fall."

ABM Program
Humphrey concluded his talk to the Democratic gathering by recommending the Nixon administration postpone for at least a year any action on the ABM antiballistic missile program.

"We have at least a year in which we could take a chance," he said.

"The time has come for man to become sane. The time has come for man to halt the arms race and hopefully to turn it back," he added.

Humphrey said the Soviet Union and America reached a point during the Johnson administration at which an arms balance seemed a reality.

When he and other members of the administration left office Jan. 20, he said, "we had arrived at a point of what we call a strategic balance."

School Price Dispute May be Settled Soon

City, VTE-12 Iron Out Difficulties on Vocational Building

The dispute over the sale price of the Appleton vocational school building and equipment to the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) board appeared headed for settlement Thursday afternoon.

The original appraisal and sales agreement between the city and board called for a $204,000 payment for building and equipment.

However, because of an apparent misunderstanding between two employees of the city and the vocational school, some equipment was moved out of the building and stored at the municipal service building.

As a result, the board said it would pay only $199,000 — $5,000 below the price agreed upon several months ago by both parties.

Mayor George Buckley and Finance Director David Champion held firm to the $204,000 price Thursday during talks with William Sirek and attorney Russell Williams, representing the VTE-12 board.

Letters were produced that indicated Milton Ness of the vocational school had inquired if the city was interested in some of the equipment. Subsequently one of the superintendents in the department of public works had the equipment hauled to the municipal service building, but it has not been used.

Officials agreed during their latest talks that there had been no official authorization on the part of the city or VTE-12 board to make any equipment transfers.

Williams and Sirek told Buckley and Champion they had not been aware of the letter Ness sent the city, and felt this might have a bearing on the thinking of the board when it takes up the school purchase matter again.

CCHE Attacked

State System Demands Equal Funds

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — In a blistering attack on the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, entitled to the state university system Friday appealed for student support from state taxes equal to that granted the University of Wisconsin system.

And it singled out budgetary allotments by the CCHE to the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay for special emphasis in comparison to far lower sums proposed by the Coordinating Council for state university campuses.

"Little was done on the CCHE level to equate the support granted the two systems," blasted Eugene R. McPheem head of the state university system.

Wisconsin students in the state university system are being penalized for not being undergraduates at the UW, he better treated with tax funds complained. And by implication, he suggested that out of state undergraduates at the UW are than are Wisconsin students at the state universities.

Regents Meeting
The attack, perhaps the most bitter aimed at it since the CCHE was restructured in 1965, came at a meeting of the Board of Regents of State Universities.

Separation of undergraduate instructional cost items and tax support from them in the CCHE budget recommendations for the two systems clearly shows that the state universities are being allotted far less money for exactly the same programs the UW runs, system officials charged.

And they repeatedly pointed to high funding levels at the embryonic UW branch campuses in Brown and Kenosha Counties in making their charges.

Teach More
"We in the state university system teach about 53 per cent of the high school students who stay in the state and go on to school. The UW trains about 30 per cent of them," said McPheem.

"We seem to be educating the Wisconsin youngsters and they don't seem to be getting the level of support that they are getting on Wisconsin kids," said McPheem.

"If you are going to spend some money, you ought to put it on Wisconsin kids," said McPheem.

The blast was evidently aimed at legislative budget-trimming sessions which will start on the UW and state university programs soon.

The lawmakers will be cutting a 50 per cent difference in the programs recommended by a 50 per cent difference in the

Gov. Warren P. Knowles for the two systems. Before Knowles got those budgets, they were reviewed and cut by the Coordinating Council.

Compare Systems
Robert Winter, state university system assistant director, told the board that when undergraduate instruction programs are compared at the UW, Milwaukee and OSU campuses, it becomes apparent that there is a 50 per cent difference in the level of student support in favor of the UW campus.

"I think that's an indictment of the lack of analysis showing what true costs are on the part of the Coordinating Council," said Winter.

Center system operation of the two systems also clearly shows the differences which handicap state university students, he said.

The two-year campuses of the state university system are expected in the budget recommendations drafted with the help of the CCHE to exist on a $136 per student library allocation.

The UW center system recommendation calls for $225 per student for the same purposes.

Student Affairs
In the field of student affairs and counseling the UW-GB recommendation calls for $207 per student. At OSU, a far larger campus, the recommendation is $67 per student.

"The closest we have to that level is at Oshkosh with $1,554,000," said Winter in comparing his campuses budgets to the $1,700,000 budget for counseling.

Yet the state university system will have more full time equivalent students in the coming two years than will the UW system, he said.

"Several of our presidents have had difficulty competing for faculty with the new campuses, and it appears it is because the two new UW campuses can offer more pay for less work," charged Winter.

Holding existing staff workers is similarly difficult, he said.

"At last we're telling it like it really is," said Regent Norman Christianson of Roberts.

Green Bay Convention

Young Dems Eulogize Kennedy

GREEN BAY — Bobby Kennedy was eulogized-again-in Green Bay Friday night.

In words and on a screen the opening general session of the annual convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Wisconsin was dedicated to the slain senator.

Many of the more than 500 delegates had campaigned for him throughout the state and Midwest less than a year ago, and after the last meeting in the convention.

Pat Lucey, the former lieutenant governor and "grand old man" of Wisconsin Democrat, hushed the assembly with a "How now can we erase the stinging tribute to 'a man of bloody nightmare of Vietnam'?" tender heart."

The convention continues to day with a banquet speech by Sen. William Proxmire. Committee members worked on the platform and resolutions through the night and most of today. They will come before the delegates Sunday.

Lucey, a political ally and personal friend to both dead Kennedys, asked the youthful party members: "Who will call us to account? Who will take in his hand, the black hand of a man" in a steaming ghetto? hushed the assembly with a "How now can we erase the stinging tribute to 'a man of bloody nightmare of Vietnam'?" tender heart."

The former Democratic candidate for governor, who campaigned a side-by-side with Robert Kennedy last summer, called him the "most misunderstood man in America."

During the 40-minute film on the last years of Kennedy's life, the hushed crowd stirred only to laugh with the Kennedy humor, and hiss at the sight of George Wallace. The film ended to a standing ovation.

The equipment is owned by the John F. Bloomer Co., Inc., Appleton, which turned in the report Thursday to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department.

Authorities said it is believed several youths living in the airport area, who last month admitted involvement in a number of airport burglaries, caused the equipment damage.

The Appleton firm was asked to submit a written estimate of the equipment damage.

Clintonville Man Guilty On Driving Charge

CLINTONVILLE — Curtis Thompson, 22, 24 E. Third St., pleaded guilty in court Friday before Municipal Justice Nathan Wieser to a charge of driving after his license was revoked on March 20 in Clintonville.

He was fined $150 and ordered to pay costs of $6.70, and presently is serving five days mandatory jail sentence. He was arrested by the city police.

Children's Welfare Program Opposed

Medical Payments for Low-Income Young, Aged Retained by Senate

MADISON — The State Senate Thursday voted to kill state welfare payments to children of unemployed fathers (AFDC-U).

But the Senate moved to salvage medical payments to 65,000 low-income children and elderly persons who cannot afford medical care.

The state Assembly earlier killed both programs in an attempt to finance a projected $20.2 million state school aid deficit.

The two programs are part of an Assembly-approved bill eliminating a number of state programs in order to make up for the deficit.

Unsuccessful Amendment

Sen. James Devitt, R-Greenfield, introduced an amendment to the bill replacing both the AFDC-U and medical aid programs to the budget, but the amendment was not successful.

Sen. Ernest Keppler, R-Sheboygan, the majority leader, then introduced an amendment restoring the medical payments but eliminating AFDC-U. His amendment passed by a slim 16-14 majority.

Cost of the medical payments, made under Group II of the Medicaid program, is estimated at $750,000 in the next biennium. Cost of the AFDC-U program is tabbed at $300,000.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles could restore the AFDC-U program by a partial veto. The medical aid program will be returned to the Assembly for a new vote to see if the Assembly will now concur in its restoration.

The AFDC-U program which represents about 5 per cent of total aid to families with dependent children, was called a "travesty on the people" by Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale.

Sen. Nile Soik, R-Whitefish Bay, who voted to restore the program, told Hollander that abuses of the program should not be cause to throw the entire program out. He urged that able-bodied, unemployed fathers get a chance to be rehabilitated.

Hollander said the program provided more of an incentive to get on the welfare rolls than to get off.

Numerous amendments to the controversial school deficit funding bill are expected Democrats are prepared to offer at least 20 and Republicans already have offered nine.

'The Crowd Cried Crucify Him'

BY REV. WAYNE RYDBERG

Mob violence is nothing new to us today. Rash actions which are the result of inflammatory language don't shock us any more because they are too much a part of our every day lives. Violence, rash actions, and inflammatory language are all an expression of character which we cannot ignore. It's part of us.

Mob violence has been with us, it is with us now, and it will be with us for years to come because it expresses what we are. The crowd cried out "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" We were with that mob, we are with that mob, and we will be with that mob every time rash actions, and inflammatory language, and mass violence explode.

If we want to isolate ourselves and forget all the violence around us now, we cannot. Our age is inundated by the weekly death counts from our wars, our highways, and our cities. We cannot forget that our life is the most prized possession that we have. Life is so dear that we only use the death penalty in the most extreme criminal cases. However there are times even now when the demands of an angry mob make themselves heard over the restraints of the law. "And the crowd cried crucify Him. Crucify Him. And he delivered Him up to be crucified."

Not too long ago the death penalty was a social event to be witnessed by all members of a family. It was a chance to take a break with friends and enjoy the show. While this may sound shocking to us, it should not. Even today much of our entertainment comes from our past wars. Much as our opinions may have changed we still enjoy and approve when we see our enemies being punished. At one time Jesus the Christ was the enemy, and the crowds that came out for the crucifixion came out to enjoy it. They had no qualms about shouting "Crucify Him!"

The crowd surrounding the cross came for the sport of mocking death, dying, and the crucifixion. Picture this! The crowds would gather at the place of the crucifixion in the hot sun to tease and to taunt the man on the cross, to get the criminals on the cross to argue and condemn the crowd. As the sun would dehydrate the criminals they would begin to rave and fight among themselves protesting their innocence. This is exactly what the crowds expected.

The crowds which surround the many crosses of the many crucifixions in history are the solid decent citizens of a community, not the kooks. These are the citizens who cry out in righteous indignation "It mustn't happen here!" when a sensitive issue is brought up. When these solid decent citizens cried out "Crucify Him!" they felt no qualms or misgivings. Jesus the Christ was the enemy, a rebel, a trouble maker.

Solid Citizens

These solid decent citizens are those who cried out to Christ on the cross: "Hey, if you are really the King of the Jews then save yourself." At this crucifixion the solid citizens weren't shocked and no one cried out "Something must be done to right this wrong." Very few even realized that something had happened on that day until much later.

It is nice and comforting to sit back and think that I would have acted differently to help the Christ. It is soothing to feel that we would have stood and opposed the wishes of the mob that cried for Christ's death. But let's be honest with ourselves. Mob violence and rash actions are nothing new today. Those actions which are the result of inflammatory language don't shock us anymore because they are too much a part of our daily lives. They are too much an expression of our character which we cannot ignore.

The cry "Crucify him" came from many voices, not one. The tone of that cry was violent and demanding. We join with that crowd with our own cries for violence and immediate action. We may wish to ignore the streak of violence in ourselves but we are quick to recognize it when it appears, and lax to do anything about it. Last year in New York when the anti-war protests were going on, I heard many express the fervent desire to see all the demonstrators killed. When Martin Luther King was murdered many wanted to reward the killer. Mob violence is nothing new today. The rash action which are result of public inflammatory language don't shock us because they are too much an expression of our character.

"And the crowd cried crucify him. And he delivered him up to be crucified."

50 MEGATON Cross

It is no longer true that one man can die to save many people. Today if we crucify ourselves it will be on a 50 megaton cross. The death of the Christ on the cross, if it means anything at all to us, should mean that we are free to pray for our neighbors, not prey off of them.

The old Negro spiritual says "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" We were there, we are there and we will be there every time we prey off of one another. The violence and the rash actions of that mob at the trial of the Christ are important to us. For ultimately that cry "Crucify him!" brought us salvation. He died for us.

Mob violence is nothing new today, but something startling happened in a mob scene at the trial. The mob screamed out to kill a man, the mob tried to tease and to taunt that man on the cross. The mob wanted to see death, but they saw something else. He asked the Father to forgive the mob. This death didn't fit the other criminals who died on the cross.

His death is for our life, for us, for what we are. When that crowd cried out for his death we were screaming with them. His death on the cross is the sign to us that he died to allow us to live. He gives us the freedom to change.

Geographical Tongue Looks a Little Bit Odd

By George C. Thosteson, M. D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: The doctor told me I have geographical tongue but seemed too busy to comment. He said there was nothing to do about it except use a mouthwash. Can you

Dr. Thosteson explain it? Is it contagious? Caused by food or allergy, or what? — Mrs. E. R.

I omitted a good deal of your letter, including your reference to the tongue being sore enough to make eating difficult, because that does not ordinarily go along with geographical tongue.

Geographical tongue is one which has irregular patches on it, but as a rule it causes no symptoms. It just looks a bit odd. Sometimes the patient notices it and wonders; sometimes it is noted in the course of a medical examination.

But since it causes no trouble, there is no particular need to try to do anything about it. Besides, the cause is not known, and there is no specific treatment. It does not seem to have any relation to allergies.

Some medical people suspect that an underlying condition such as anemia, or faulty nutrition, may be responsible, but there are cases which seem to have no connection with this or, indeed, with any health condition.

It's wise to check the diet and make sure that it is well balanced — adequate protein, vegetables and fruits, and possibly a mixed vitamin supplement — but other than that, the best thing to do about geographical tongue is to forget about it. It is not a serious condition.

When the tongue is also raw or painful, my immediate thought is to suspect the presence of some other condition. There is, after all, no reason why a person may not have something else wrong, and the geographical tongue is just a coincidence.

Some forms of anemia are common causes of red and sore tongue. Or there may be a general glossitis (inflammation of the tongue), or irritation from teeth, dentures or dental materials, as pastes.

The main harm done by geographical tongue is that people worry about it until they are assured that it isn't harmful. But when pain or soreness is present, it's time to look for some other cause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We are planning to be married next summer but I am hesitating about the exact date. My periods don't occur regularly. Sometimes they are 42 to 60 days apart. Is there any way they can be regulated?

My doctor says it is perfectly normal for a girl my age (19½) as long as each period is five days long. — R. R.

Your doctor is quite right, but that doesn't solve your problem as to setting the date.

I trust your thyroid has been checked; correction of thyroid deficiency frequently helps regulate the cycle.

You might also discuss with your doctor the use of birth control pills because these contain hormones that tend to regulate the cycle. In a case like yours, they should be started about four months before your marriage, to give time to determine the menstrual pattern which follows.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the reason for having a mongoloid child? — Mrs. C. P.

It is the presence of an extra chromosome in the child's cell structure — but what causes the extra chromosome is not so easy to establish. One known factor is that it happens somewhat more frequently when the mother is in her later childbearing years.

Chronic bad breath can make life miserable for everyone. For a medical view of the causes and cure of bad breath, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of the booklet, "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected," enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Kaukauna Mayor Urges County College Retention

KAUKAUNA — Mayor Gilbert Anderson announced Thursday he was writing to the educational committee of the State Assembly on behalf of the city, urging them to retain county teacher colleges beyond 1971. "The school in Kaukauna has meant a fine education for many students who could not have afforded an education elsewhere. It has in the past and continues to produce outstanding teachers who are a credit to their profession," said the mayor.

Noting there was almost complete lack of disturbances at the college as compared to common disturbances at many other schools, the mayor said "It would seem today in view of the high costs of building new structures, the State of Wisconsin would and should continue to make use of facilities such as ours that are performing such a worthwhile service."

The mayor pointed to the many area teachers who had received their first few years of training at the local teacher's college, using it as a stepping stone to continue their education at an institution of higher learning. He noted many of these had gone on to receive advanced degrees and were performing outstanding teacher service to many area communities.

"I strongly urge the continuance of such schools after the year 1971," Mayor Anderson concluded.

hand. You don't interfere with the enemy's bidding, and your bid serves only to tell declarer where the missing high cards are.

South won the first trick with the ace of spades, drew one round of trumps with the king and cleared the ace and king of diamonds out of the way. Then he led a trump to the ace, expecting to claim the rest of the tricks if the trumps happened to break 2-2.

When the trumps broke badly, South ruffed dummy's low diamond and cashed the ace of clubs. Then he led a trump to the queen and cashed the queen of diamonds to get rid of the ten of clubs.

At Crossroads
If nobody had bid, South might have led the queen of clubs from dummy for a ruffing finesse, expecting to discard a spade if East played low. This play would bring the slam home if East had the king of clubs. Since West had bid, however, South expected West to hold the king of clubs.

West had been forced to discard twice on the trumps and had thrown one low spade and then the nine of clubs. It was clear that West's last four cards were three spades and only one club, dropping West's king of club, dropping West's king of spades, forcing to game. Partner was expected to raise spades if he has three or more spades in his hand; otherwise he bids three notrump.

Good players have to know how to bid, it is true, but they

Three-Year-Old Reprimanded for Crying

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son-in-law reads your column every day and even though he says you are nuts half the time, he yells his head off if he can't find the part of the paper you are in. So please, Ann, print this.

My daughter is a wonderful mother. They have three normal kids who get into the usual mischief, but they are good children. My son-in-law is so hard on the 3-year-old boy it breaks my heart. If the child falls and cries, his father slaps him. He says tears are a sign of weakness and the way to make a he-man out of a boy is to teach him now to "take it." Please tell him it is normal for a 3-year-old to cry. Maybe

Landers he will believe it if he sees it in print — Buffalo

Dear Buffalo: Your son-in-law isn't the only reader who thinks I'm nuts half the time. (I'm nuts, of course, when I don't happen to agree with them.) I hope he will discuss this situation with a doctor before the boy is damaged permanently. A child who is afraid to cry can develop crippling emotional problems. DEAR ANN LANDERS: A very nice senior boy invited me to a fancy party. It was formal and I bought a new dress for the occasion. I happen to know that the evening cost Ted quite a lot of money because his sister who is my age (also 16) told me. We both had a super time and I thanked him when he said good night.

The next morning at school his sister told me I'd better telephone Ted and write him a letter of appreciation. I said I had never heard of such a thing. She replied, "My mother always notices which girls have the best manners, and she has a lot of influence over Ted."

I like Ted and I want him to like me. But I don't think I need to telephone or write to him to say thanks again. Do you? — Miss Stymied

Dear Miss? You said thanks at the door and that was enough. When you see Ted again mention once more that you had a wonderful time, but a note or phone call would be overdoing it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went through a heartbreaking experience two years ago and I'm just getting over it. I know now I drove Bob away because I let him do things he was ashamed of. The old saying is true — "They'll sleep with you if they can and marry you if they can't." After he got what he wanted he dropped me.

The young man I am going with now is super. Like most guys he tried to sell me on "proving my love." When I thanked me for having standards that were high enough for both of us I've never been happier in my life — Philadelphia Filly

Dear Filly: Cheers for you. Your letter proves that a one-time loser can wind up an all-time winner.

Lotto Visits the Rathskellar

And then there is the Rathskeller in the Memorial Union on the University of Wisconsin campus, where plots are supposed to be hatched by bearded radicals, where there is supposed to be an open market in dope, and which is one of the few places among campuses in the nation where beer is sold.

In a newsletter to residents of his district, State Sen. Myron Lotto of De Pere reported that he and a colleague went to take a look at the "notorious" Rathskeller for themselves. "And contrary to what has been reported, we were not shocked," said Lotto.

Lotto reported he saw a couple of Hippies and one student playing a guitar and singing a civil rights song.

Head Start and Israel's Kibbutz

The nation has become increasingly aware of the massive problems our ghetto conditions in the cities have created. A major one is how to break the pattern so that children in such areas can have the opportunities afforded to youngsters who live in the country or the suburbs.

The Head Start program, now being reconsidered by the Nixon Administration, was aimed at providing the pre-school ghetto child with some of the needs which were not fulfilled at home. In too many ghetto homes there is little intelligent conversation, no effort at story telling, no attempt to develop respect for either parent or child.

But Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, director of the University of Chicago's Orthogenic School for the rehabilitation of disturbed children, questions whether the Head Start program can do very much as long as the child returns to his ghetto home after class. "A terrible strain is created when you take children out of the ghettos for a few hours each day and teach them how to adapt to a middle-class learning pattern which is entirely different from the skill they need to survive in the jungle of their home environment." The result, he warns, might merely increase their "disrespect for the parents and heighten their hostility toward society as a whole."

Dr. Bettelheim points to a study made in Israel comparing supplementary teaching programs like Head Start to the Israeli kibbutz practice. Children of almost illiterate North African and Yemenite immigrants were put in the two different types of education. Those receiving supplementary education showed an increase of 5 to 10 points in their I.Q.s but those in the kibbutz jumped 25 points on the average. Dr. Bettelheim suggests that in using compensatory educational methods while the children are still primarily raised by their parents, it will take three or four generations to accomplish very much. "Yet the children in the kibbutz showed that it is possible to overcome the gap in one generation by substituting a creative, communal environment for the parents as the dominant influence in their lives."

"But other than that, it looked like a gathering of young people at any other teen-age bar in Wisconsin. As a matter of fact, most of the youths were drinking soda and it appeared that their main purpose was simply relaxation. From what I was able to see, this part of university life does not live up to the adverse publicity it has received," Lotto said.

It would be a good thing if more senators and assemblymen followed Lotto's example rather than sitting around listening to each other describe how the younger generation is going to the dogs. State Street is supposed to be a link between the university and the Capitol. Besides, this spring weather is great for taking a walk.

The kibbutz system places youngsters in communal nurseries and they regard all as brothers and sisters. Parents visit for a couple of hours a day but the supervising is done by those in charge of the system. Dr. Bettelheim has found that children raised in such fashion are "extremely happy and healthy." They are taught something which Dr. Bettelheim says is completely lacking in our slums, "the ability to forego immediate gratification in favor of long-range goals . . . The slum child has already learned that what he might get at the moment he might never get again . . . It is in their homes that the climate is not created to help the child value good education."

The kibbutz system also combines the academic educational process with gardening, carpentry and animal husbandry. The youngsters feel they are contributing and are a part of society as a whole, rather than outside and overly dependent upon it. "So they do not have to deny . . . their dependent weakness by engaging in rebellious violence." This aspect reaches far beyond the problem of the slum child.

Setting up such a system in the United States would be extremely difficult. It would cost a great deal and in addition a lot of Americans feel that children are the responsibility of their parents in particular and not that of the state. But the violence in our cities and on our campuses — and it has moved down into the junior and senior high schools — means that we are all affected.

In the past century the American public school system has been a major means of bridging the educational gap between the thousands of immigrants and the more affluent already here. But the problems are different today and they need different solutions.

many Americans are teaching in Canadian colleges. There are only 60 higher educational institutions in Canada as compared to more than 2,400 in the United States. But the protestors point out that the increase in Canadians hired for faculty positions in the last few years is a small percentage of those actually in such positions all over the world and they blame lack of active recruitment.

Competition for men and women with doctorates is keen in the United States. But some Americans are heading north because of what they feel to be the unfavorable political climate in the United States at this time, the unrest in the cities and the chaos on some campuses. Faculty members have been leaving California institutions in particular. And while Canada has also had some student demonstrations, there appears to be more tranquility.

The publicity on the statistics has concerned some Canadians and there probably will be greater efforts to recruit natives for faculties. But as long as the current education boom in Canada continues, it is likely that Americans also will be encouraged.

Masquerade Great Success

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for March 1, 1869.

The Masquerade party at Bertschy Hall last week under the management of the Spiritualist Society was decidedly the most brilliant affair of the season.

There was a greater profusion of court and antique dresses than on any previous occasion to grace the retinue of King Carnival. Although the comic element was fairly represented, the sentimental and aristocratic were in the ascendant.

There were between 60 and 70 masks and a very large gathering of spectators. The music as usual was good. The best humor prevailed and the party broke up after a night's hilarity and enjoyment unmarred by anything boisterous or unseemly.

The lovers of these piquant entertainments will be pleased to learn that the Society

Key Biscayne People Proud of New Neighbor, Quiet Life Is Threatened

BY BEN FUNK

KEY BISCAINE, Fla. (AP) — The natives of Key Biscayne, a 2,300-acre paradise nestled among thousands of towering coconut palm trees waving in the trade winds, are bursting with pride.

Richard Milhous Nixon, the 37th President of the United States, is their neighbor.

And with that comes the loss of the quiet life on the tight little subtropic isle.

Hordes of sightseers will swarm across the Rickenbacker Causeway from Miami, trying to see the President's home or get a glimpse of him and his family. Great flurries of activity, marked by the siren wail of police escorts, will mark Nixon's frequent visits.

Already, there have been complaints about traffic snarls on Crandon Boulevard, the island's main road, which narrows from four to two lanes as it approaches the area from which Nixon will at times govern the nation.

Nixon purchased the home of a wealthy Cuban exile, Manuel Arca Jr., a rambling, pale-blue structure valued at $127,000 which sits 200 feet from the shore of Biscayne Bay. Next door is the home of retiring U. S. Sen. George Smathers, which Nixon has used before and also plans to buy.

REBOZO IS CONFIDENT

Just beyond the Smathers bome is that of C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a banker who took Nixon fishing on his first trip to the island and since has become his confident and closest friend. Beyond the Rebozo home, Nixon since has bought the home of Perry O'Neal and rented a fifth house.

A 10-foot high hedge of hibiscus bushes has been planted as a barrier against sightseers around a compound encompassing the five houses.

Strangely, in spite of its charm and a flamboyant history, Key Biscayne was utterly overlooked by Florida's avid land developers for decades.

As late as 1947, when it was first linked to the mainland by causeway, the island boasted only about 50 residents supplied by a biweekly ferry from the mainland. The only telephone was in the back room of Harry Vernon's store.

Legend says that Ponce de Leon came ashore in 1513 and named the island Santa Maria. It was a hideout for Black Caesar and other buccaneers preying on the treasure ships of the Spanish Main. A red brick lighthouse still standing on Cape Florida at the south end of the island was erected in 1825 to foil wreckers who lured ships onto the offshore reefs and stripped them bare.

In 1902, William J. Matheson, New York capitalist and yachtsman, discovered the island, bought a large tract of land, cleared a yacht basin and planted Malaysian coconut trees by the thousands.

Here, in a mansion of Moorish architecture which he called Mashtia, an Egyptian word meaning "resting spot by the sea," Matheson played host to many wealthy and famous visitors sailing yachts down from the north.

MACKLES BUILD HOTEL

Then the Florida land developers, Frank, Elliott and Robert Mackle, built the Key where Nixon stayed on his Biscayne Hotel and Villas where Nixon stayed on his first visit.

In the island's interior, the Mackles built 1,000 homes which were quickly snapped up by people like airline pilots, attorneys and junior executives seeking escape from the daily grind. For the first year, they had no telephones. Neighbors communicated with each other by use of a community bulletin board.

"The other doctors said I was crazy," said Handwerker, who has developed a bustling practice. "Now they call me, 'You lucky dog.'"

The new residents built a private beach club and marina, formed a volunteer fire department, and became "islanders" living in an entirely different world than that across the causeway. A colony of artists moved in, adding a bit of Greenwich Village flavor to the Key.

As wealthy visitors began to move to the island, and more hotels and apartment houses went up, the complexion of Key Biscayne rapidly changed. More than $100 million worth of hotels and luxury condominiums are now under construction or scheduled and the price of beachfront property has reached $3,000 a front foot and is steadily rising.

Bounded on both ends by two of the country's great ocean parks, Cape Florida and Crandon Park, the amount of building that can be done is extremely limited. The largest piece of undeveloped land remaining is a 40-acre tract owned by the Mackles in front of their Key Biscayne Hotel.

This is fine with the residents, because it will prevent the construction of a mass of hotels that would have turned the island into another Miami Beach. Key Biscayne still has no night clubs.

With a population of about 5,000, the island has experienced only one murder in that time. This, however, happened to be one of the most sensational of the period — the knifing of millionaire Jacques Mossler. His widow, Candace Mossler, and her lover-nephew, Melvin Powers, were acquitted after a lurid trial.

Wisconsin Report

Many Legislators May Be 'Taking a Walk' on Controversial Votes

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In the patois of legislative politics, there is a well-worn phrase known as "taking a walk."

A senator or an assemblyman "takes a walk" when he evades a roll call on a difficult, or doubtful, or dangerous issue. When challenged, he can usually contrive an excuse. He was escorting a group of constituents around the Capitol. He was answering an urgent telephone call. One man who was perhaps the champion of all the legislative pedestrians of modern times used to explain, when called upon to explain his absence on a record vote, that he had been summoned into conference by the governor at that precise moment.

It may be that there will be more of such straying from the voting button in the Assembly or the oral ayes and nays in the State Senate this year than in the normal session. The legislative year is yet young, but it is already crystal clear that there will be scores of issues on which legislators will find it difficult to take a position, on whatever side of a question, without giving offense to large chunks of their constituencies.

LOBBY FOR CONTRACEPTIVES

Take the question of liberalizing the law on birth control by making contraceptives available to all, married and unmarried, when obtained from licensed pharmacists and physicians.

There is a powerful lobby at work on behalf of the bill. It has been at work for nearly three years.

Probably in a secret ballot, that bill would pass the current legislature.

But there is also a determined, relentless, influential slice of the population of the state that is dead set against changing the present law, which in effect prohibits contraceptives by classifying them as indecent articles and hence illegal. There are moral and religious issues involved here, in the view of that determined group of Wisconsin citizens.

SOME WON'T VOTE

The politician knows better than anyone else that the most faithful voter is the angry voter. Thus on a roll call vote no one would find it easy to forecast the result today, but it is a fair bet that there will be abstentions.

From the viewpoint of the average legislator, the issue of state grants to parochial school pupils for the payment of tuition in nonpublic schools will be equally troublesome.

There are thousands of good and decent citizens of Wisconsin who are deeply persuaded that this would be a bargain for the state. They believe that without such a subsidy it appears likely that more and more of the parochial schools will go under, with the result that tens of thousands of children will be transferred to the far more costly public schools to inflate school tax costs.

SEE PRINCIPLE VIOLATION

But no less earnest and persistent are those who insist that this is a violation of the constitutional principle of the separation of church and state. If this reporter's mail is a fair sample, this issue may well be a stand-off in this legislature. Many legislators probably are devoutly wishing that through some miracle the issue could be removed.

Perhaps the most volatile issue of all will be the management of the money and taxes issue for the biennium.

Nobody who pays any attention whatever can doubt that there is a deep resentment and fear among middle income earners — or the most influential element of the electorate — about the spiraling costs of government and the growth of taxation that exceeds the growth of the economy and private earnings by increasingly wide margins.

The legislature is under leadership that can be called conservative, in the lexicon of these times. There will be strenuous efforts to reduce proposed spending in order to soften the tax blow. Perhaps up to $100 million will be shaved from the budget of Gov. Knowles, who has already cut more than $200 million from the voracious requests of the agencies and institutions.

REVENUES STILL SHORT

But that will leave, nevertheless, a revenue gap of $300 million or more, and a new tax clout upon the people of Wisconsin heavier than they have ever experienced in a single blow.

When the time for that decision comes, there will be many senators and assemblymen looking for escape hatches, but unable to find them because of the close division of the parties, notably in the Assembly.

County Jail Should Be Closed Forthwith

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

As a citizen of Outagamie County, I am thoroughly ashamed of the unhealthy, dirty and inhumane conditions of the jail facilities at our court house. The state has been warning our county supervisors for years that our confinement setup is way below minimum state standards.

A county that will allow young, relatively inexperienced offenders to be locked up with much older and more experienced law breakers is misguided if it thinks it is being economical. The education in the refined points of crime, passed on to the novice may lead him to become a full-fledged criminal. Society must then support this person in prisons as well as clean up the wreckage of his law breaking. Besides this cost in dollars and cents there is the moral question of its inhumanity.

No one should be forced to use toilet facilities in full view of half a dozen other people. No one should be compelled to eat his meals only a few feet from an open urinal. Surely we, who have so much to be thankful for, can afford to be compassionate toward people in trouble and to treat them with some respect as fellow human beings.

I am asking the state to enforce the order issued June 1, 1960, March 21 and September 25 of 1968 and to close our jail until our county comes up with a place to house prisoners of all types that reflects that prisoners too are human beings.

Birth Control Opponents Forget All About the Child

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Congratulations on your strong stand supporting changing our archaic Wisconsin laws on family planning.

To allow a child to be conceived when there is no chance for that child to receive such fundamental necessities of life as love and security is wantonly cruel and immoral.

To use the threat of pregnancy in the vain hope that it will discourage relations between men and women blatantly disregards the potential child's rights.

Surely, no compassionate person approves of the prevalence of child abuse; the scarring of personality by a society which points the "finger of shame" at both the unwed mother and her child (misses the unwed father); the drain of too many children on the resources of people in low-income brackets, and the resultant abrogating of the chance for these children to compete in our society on an equal basis.

Family planning can go a long way towards alleviating these conditions. Birth control information should be available to anyone who desires it. Mrs. Claude Williams

Ray's Lawyer Has 'New Information'

Klan-Associated J. B. Stoner Will Try to Get Another Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray's new lawyer arrived today to visit Ray at the state prison and said he had new information which convinced him that Ray did not assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

J. B. Stoner, a Savannah, Ga., attorney long associated with the Ku Klux Klan, said he had been retained by Ray in his effort to win a new trial.

Warden Lake Thompson of the Tennessee State Penitentiary said he had not been contacted by Stoner but that the attorney would have no trouble seeing Ray if the prisoner wished it.

Guilty Plea
Ray pleaded guilty March 10 to a first-degree murder charge that he shot King in Memphis last April 4. Ray was brought here the next day to begin a 99-year prison sentence.

In Chattanooga Friday night, Stoner, 44, said he would be aided in the case by a Chattanooga lawyer, Robert W. Hill.

elimination of arms building—if we are successful in future arms control talks," he said at still another point.

The Safeguard, he added, "is not an escalation of the arms race."

Easier to Ask
Although outwardly cool, Laird did remark that as a former congressman, he recalled it was easier to ask questions than to answer them.

After the administration's first face-to-face confrontation with Safeguard critics in the Senate, there was no immediate evidence either side gained any converts.

The opportunity for both sides to present their argument before national television produced few surprises. The Armed Services Committee was almost unanimously behind an ABM and the disarmament subcommittee almost unanimously against one.

But it is the Armed Services and Appropriations committees that will actually pass on funds for the Safeguard. The disarmament panel is mainly a vehicle for dissent.

Banning of Work Angers Artists

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Some members of Wisconsin's leading artists' organization reportedly have threatened to withdraw from the state art exhibition because a controversial work had been banned.

Trustees of the Milwaukee Art Center banned the piece "Monuments to a Legacy," which consisted of four em-palmed dogs laid out in a row on an old rug. The trustees said the work might offend the public, even though a jury of three judges had awarded the entry in honorable mention.

Wisconsin Painters and Sculptors, Inc., issued a statement saying the decision of the jury should have been binding and that the trustees' action was "contrary to freedom of expression."

Joseph Hasek, president of the artists' group, said members were concerned that other works might be banned from shows for similar reasons.

Young Actor Gets Plush TV Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — British actor Jack Wild, 16, won court approval Wednesday of a television contract under which he will be paid $1,500 each for 17 segments of the proposed "H. R. Pufnstuf" series.

If the show is aired at night, the young actor will earn $5,000 per segment. There are four yearly options rising to a final year at $5,000 for daytime showing and $10,000 for night showing.

In addition, he will be paid $10,000 a year, for a minimum of 10 weeks work, under a film option.

Superior Court Judge William E. MacFaden approved the arrangement for Wild, who won an Academy Award nomination for his role in "Oliver!"

Right to be Proud

Calumet Legionnaires Celebrate Anniversary

POTTER — "No people in the world has a greater right to be proud nor a greater obligation to be thankful that we in America," Roland Duschek, past department vice commander, told an audience of more than 200 gathered for the 50th birthday celebration of the American Legion. The celebration in Calumet County was Wednesday at Salm's Hall here.

Duschek, a teacher at Markesan High School, traced the history of America and paid tribute to those who founded the country.

He urged his audience to have the foresight in enjoying and conserving the resources that the forefathers had in planning independence, in developing the Constitution, in pushing our frontiers westward, and in establishing the culture.

Before Duschek's talk, Lyle Pasewald, commander of the Hilbert post which handled arrangements, introduced state, district and county officers, along with unit and post officials. All World War I and Vietnam veterans attending were recognized.

Oratorical awards were presented by county commander, Ivan Novak, Hilbert, to Laurel Habermann, Brillion, and Mary Mayer, Chilton. The New Holstein post received the bowling trophy. District Commander, Lloyd Habermann, Brillion reported that all posts in the county had surpassed 100 per cent in membership goals.

Decorations appropriate for the 50th anniversary celebration were arranged in the hall and table favors were placed at each setting by the Hilbert

Telephone Use far Above Average

Appleton Has Some of World's Gabbiest Folks

Appleton has some of the "biggest talkers" in the world, according to an annual survey by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Richard Van Sistine, local manager for the Wisconsin Telephone Company, says Appleton residents place more than 66 million telephone calls a year. This represents an average of 900 calls a year by every man, woman and child.

Lowest Volume
The nationwide average is 667 calls per person, which ranks Americans second only to Canadians in telephone talk. Canadians average 667.7 conversations per person.

At the opposite end of the scale, there are countries like Burma, Ethiopia, India, Vietnam and others, where the annual calling volume is less than five calls per person.

The figures are included in the latest edition of "The World's Telephones," a compilation of worldwide telephone statistics published by AT&T. All data is current as of Jan. 1, 1968, since it takes almost a year to gather the information when it became the first to Thirty-three countries now have more than a half million phones. The United States, with almost 104 million, has five and a half times as many as Japan, in second in the ranking of countries.

Programs offered throughout the day include "Guitar in the Classroom," by Dr. Herman Slayman, of the University of Illinois Extension Services; a keyboard laboratory demonstration by representatives of the Baldwin Piano Company; a film, "Music in Motion," shown by John Bresnahan, a representative of Bailey Films; and a concert by the Lance Junior High School choir of Kenosha, J. Richard Dixon, director.

Materials for junior high school curricula will be on display, and a buffet luncheon will be offered for participants. Hours of the symposium will be 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., with meetings in the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

Junior High School Music Program to be at Lawrence

The symposium will emphasize the use of guitar and piano as social instruments in the junior high music curriculum. For Indoor Fun Try Playing Fast-Moving 'Tornado Golf'

BY CAPPY DICK

You won't need a set of golf clubs to play "Tornado Golf"; you simply use your breath. For golf ball you use table tennis balls.

The golf course may be on the kitchen table or the floor. On it tennis ball for each player. The you must lay out a course of hazards. Use forks, spoons, pans of water, a cracker, a hump in the rug, a ruler and any other such obstructions which will interfere with the progress of the ball as a player blows it along.

You will require one table tennis ball for each player. No more than one blow can be used for one turn. The player may not follow the ball with his face close to it. He takes a position for the entire game and blows from there each time, although he may blow as long as his breath holds out.

After one blow it is the next player's turn. The game continues until all have blown their table tennis balls either over or around the hazards and have reached the finish of the course. The winner is the player who has accomplished this with the fewest number of blows.

Special Effects Make 'Scarecrow' Impressive

Deftly Handled Lights, Noises Coupled With Remarkable Setting in Witch Story

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Staff Writer
OSHKOSH — Impressive special effects went a long way toward making the Oshkosh State University speech department's production of Percy MacKaye's impressively difficult "The Scarecrow" an enjoyable evening Thursday.

Strobe lights, explosions and a remarkable set helped the small audience attending the opening night overlook actors' jittery, unsteady lines and, in some cases, inadequate acting by the university students.

MacKaye (1875-1956) obviously did not envision the lighting effects director Nancy Vunovich and technical director-scenic designer Robert Heise employed, but one suspects he could have applauded them, because they contributed to the mystical atmosphere in which the devil and his cronies operate in this play, which is set in 17th century New England.

Briefly, the plot involves the fortunes of a witch (Goody Rick-) and the devil (Dickon) to inject life into a scarecrow, with the intent that the latter will overthrow Rachel, sealing her in on Richard Talbot, thus injecting pain on Justice Merton, Rachel's uncle, who is a former lover of Goody Rickby's. Or something like that.

It must have been a slow year for Satan if he found time to vote so much energy to such an exploit.

The acting was on a par one could expect of an amateur or academic group tackling this 18th work by the American author Frankly, professionals might easily master it, and a fair deal of the performances were acceptable, but failed to appear to answer to the without depth. Still, there were several outstanding moments, mostly provided by Robert Harley as Dickon, Chris Fuller as Justice Merton, Angus MacDonald as Richard Ravensbane (the scarecrow "come to life") and Dennis Schulz in an hilarious scene as Captain Bughy.

Lord Ravensbane was not a man and depended upon a life-giving brimstone-burning pipe for his survival. And, as a scarecrow, he walked funny and his movements were stiff — appropriate. He came across as a sort of metaphysical Hymie the Robot.

Others whose performances were above the general level included Diane Kippenhan as Rachel, Diane Armitage as Goody Rickby, and Philip Oldani as Richard Talbot. Also appearing in speaking roles of consequence were Robert Johnson as the Boy and Rev. Master Rand, Tom Andrew as the Scarecrow (reflection in the mirror), Karen Krause as Mistress Merton and Jerry Stephens as Michah.

The costumes were colorful but one suspects intentionally absurd at points, both in terms of historical accuracy and good taste.

The audience was small, but with the competition of television's coverage of both NCAA college tournament and WIAA state high school competition, the chances of attracting males were lessened. The same might be expected of tonight's final performance, which will be on at the same time as the state high school championship game. Curtain time will be 8 p.m., or thereabouts.

Kaukauna Man Fined On Disorderly Charge

KAUKAUNA — Bruce Przybylski, 40, 214 W. Ninth St., was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $25 when he failed to appear to answer to charges Wednesday before Municipal Justice Clarence O'Connor.

Przybylski was arrested Feb. 18 after police were called to his home where he was beating his wife.

5:30-6:30 Channel 11 — ABC winds up a well-covered ski season with an hour special on the three-day competition for The North American Alpine Ski Championships from Waterville Valley, N.H. This is the final event in the series of 14 meetings which decides the World Cup champions.

4:30-5:30 Channel 11 — Sports takes a backseat to girl-watching on ABC's Wide World of Sports. The program has been noted for covering some off-beat competitions but nothing compared to the International Bikini Sports Competition from Rosarito Beach, Mexico. These young ladies, 60 in all, will compete in such activities as gymnastics, basketball, archery, trampoline and horseback riding. After that, we are treated to the bikini competition.

6:30-7 Channel 5 — Adam-12 has delved into most routine police activities and tonight takes on one of the most common and most neglected, that of the amorous female. In this, Officer Malloy (Martin Milner) gives a wealthy young lady a traffic ticket and she immediately falls for the combination of his blue eyes and uniform.

7:7:30 Channel 5 — Get Smart has a two-parter titled "The-Not-So-Great-Escape." Part one is all capturing, with no escaping at all. This is a Kaos plot to do away with CONTROL by kidnapping all the agents and putting them in a prisoner-of-war camp.

7:30-8 Channel 5 — The Ghost and Mrs. Mur has one of its funnier scripts featuring Jonathan Daly and Yvonne Craig as an eloping couple. They are on their way to get married when a rain storm forces them to seek shelter at Gull Cottage.

9-10 Channel 2 — Mannix certainly isn't lacking in old flames. Sally Kellerman plays the latest tonight, a wealthy young lady and former fiancée who has become mixed up with an underworld hood and his hit-and-run death. NM Community Chest Cites Donors For Record Fund Campaign in 1968

NEENAH-MENASHA — More than 135 business firms, service organizations and government agencies will receive a special "thank you" from the Community Chest of Neenah-Menasha during the annual awards dinner at Hotel Menasha on Tuesday evening.

The chest collected a record $261,525 in its 1968 campaign, almost $11,000 more than the goal.

Special honors will go to the eight firms which had 100 per cent fair share employee participation (each worker gave one day's pay). These firms are Badger Products Co., Boy's Brigade, Churn Construction Co., National Manufacturer's service Bank, Neenah-Menasha Apostolawards, Neenah Printing Co., Twin City News-Record and Twin City Savings & Loan.

Eleven other firms will be honored for a 100 per cent increase in giving over 1967 and 60 per cent or more employee participation. Nine firms received awards for 75 per cent or more employee participation and an average gift of at least $14 per person.

Douglas Graves, 1968 campaign chairman, will be master of ceremonies for the event, which will include a performance by the "Up with People" singing group. Graves also will

All other firms will get merit plaques for their participation in the campaign. There are 38 new companies or organizations that are receiving the merit award this year in addition to the 99 companies who have earned the honor for the second straight year.

Through the efforts of these companies and individuals, Neenah-Menasha recorded the largest increase in contributions for a large fund campaign in the state. The Community Chest collected 15.7 per cent more than in 1967 and 4.2 per cent over the 1968 goal of $250,610.

In Ticket Lines at 5 a.m. Today

Rocket Boosters Are Certain

BY DINAH WALTER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — One thing is certain — the duel between the Rockets and the Beloit Purple Knights tonight in Madison will be a sellout.

While the outcome of the state title is still up in the air, several hundred Neenah High School students, many who began waiting at the high school at 5 a.m. today to get tickets, are highly optimistic.

"Of course we're going to win. They (Beloit) think they are good... we know we are good," claimed sophomore Mary Freeman.

Another student, Dina Enarview, said Manitowish High School, last year's winner, sent a telegram to Neenah High hoping Neenah would keep the title "in the family."

"We are going to do it," she said.

At 6 a.m. today, the parking lots at the school were jammed, as were the hallways in front of the gymnasium, where two long lines of students were waiting to get their hands on the tickets.

One sophomore, Diane Derfus, who admitted she was getting tired, but hoped her breakfast of Wheaties would hold out, began waiting in line at 5:30 a.m. At that time, she said, there already was a line of students.

Another earlybird was Janice Hayercraft, who also hoped to get on the buses leaving at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. today for Madison.

Tickets began selling at 9 a.m., but not to the first who arrived. The students who had attended the previous two games, Thursday and Friday, were told to go to the auditorium to get tickets, while the others had to wait and hope there would be tickets left.

The total number of tickets available to students was still not known during the early morning hours, since a call was being made to Madison to find out the exact number of tickets Neenah students could have.

Tom Ginter, a senior, was another early arriver. He had attended the first two games and had no doubt that Neenah would come through again.

"There are so many kids. What a mess, a silly mess," voiced other students about the crowd.

Following the stampede of students with priority to the auditorium, left in front of the gym's ticket office were students who planned to drive and wanted tickets, and several who still wanted the bus tickets.

Tickets remaining after the priority students are checked, will be sold at $4 a piece, to other students hoping to go, on a first-come, first-serve basis.

One young lady, who decided to drive herself, had only a sympathetic "good luck" for classmates waiting in line so long.

Winneconne School Cost, Referendum Date to be Set Monday

WINNECONNE — A date for the referendum on the proposed Winneconne High School is expected to be set Monday night by the board of education.

In addition, Supt. Virgil Wadleigh said, the board will have to determine the cost of the facility — probably $2 million or lower.

The board has seriously considered the lower costs upon a recommendation of a citizens' committee in mid-February, which was set up in December to find out what residents wanted to provide for students, following the defeat of the referendum on the $2.5 million high school in early December.

Appearing before the board will be Richard Thern, Thern Associates, Inc., Oshkosh, who will present revised building plans of the proposed school.

Thern has designed 11 other plans for the school district, one of which voters decided not to support.

Wadleigh said Thern's new plans will be for a school without a swimming pool, which was one of the major objections of residents.

Wadleigh said the board, after viewing the plans and setting a date, will attempt to determine how to proceed in order to sell the need for a new school to the community.

The board tentatively agreed during its February meeting that it would take the same route it had for promotion of its first plan to try to get support.

Board members last fall set up special informational meetings and sent out brochures on the new school as well as school students.

Speaking to the opening session of the Wisconsin Council for Exceptional Children statewide meeting in Oshkosh, Steiger said, "We have to accept the idea that education is a state and local responsibility. This is especially true of special education."

The federal government, Steiger noted, "appropriates only $5.85 per handicapped child for special education. The people of Wisconsin appropriate more money for special education than the federal government provides for the entire nation," Steiger stated.

This means that if adequate services are going to be provided, and if public awareness is going to be improved, the responsibility lies right here at home.

"Wisconsin does an outstanding job of providing services to handicapped children. More than 75 per cent of the handicapped children in Wisconsin receive special education services while in some states less than 15 per cent are served and the national average in only 33 per cent," Steiger said. "The Children with Learning Disabilities Act of 1969, which I recently joined in sponsoring, attempts to come to grips with some of these basic problems in special education," Steiger said.

The act emphasizes research and demonstration projects relating to children with learning disabilities. It provides for grants to provide professional and advanced training for teachers of handicapped children, and the bill sets up model centers to improve the techniques available to the teachers of the handicapped.

Steiger said the direction of the research activity is a step that can be taken at the federal level; however, special programs for children with learning disabilities and attention to organization of facilities for the education of the handicapped can be undertaken right now at the local level. "We simply cannot afford to wait until the federal government is able to contribute all the necessary funds. We must recognize the government's role at this point as one of stimulating interest and concern, encouraging new approaches and contributing part of the money for achieving the goal of the best possible education for our handicapped children," Steiger declared.

Judge Affirms Jail Term for OSU Student on Drug Charge

OSHKOSH — County Judge James G. Sarres affirmed Friday a three-year reformatory sentence imposed by County Judge James V. Sitter upon a rural Brandon youth who was found guilty of possession and sales of marijuana.

The youth, James N. De Young, 20, a former Oshkosh State University (OSU) student, asked Judge Sitter to review the sentence imposed Tuesday. Judge Sitter agreed and then, because he would not be available today, assigned the case to Judge Sarres.

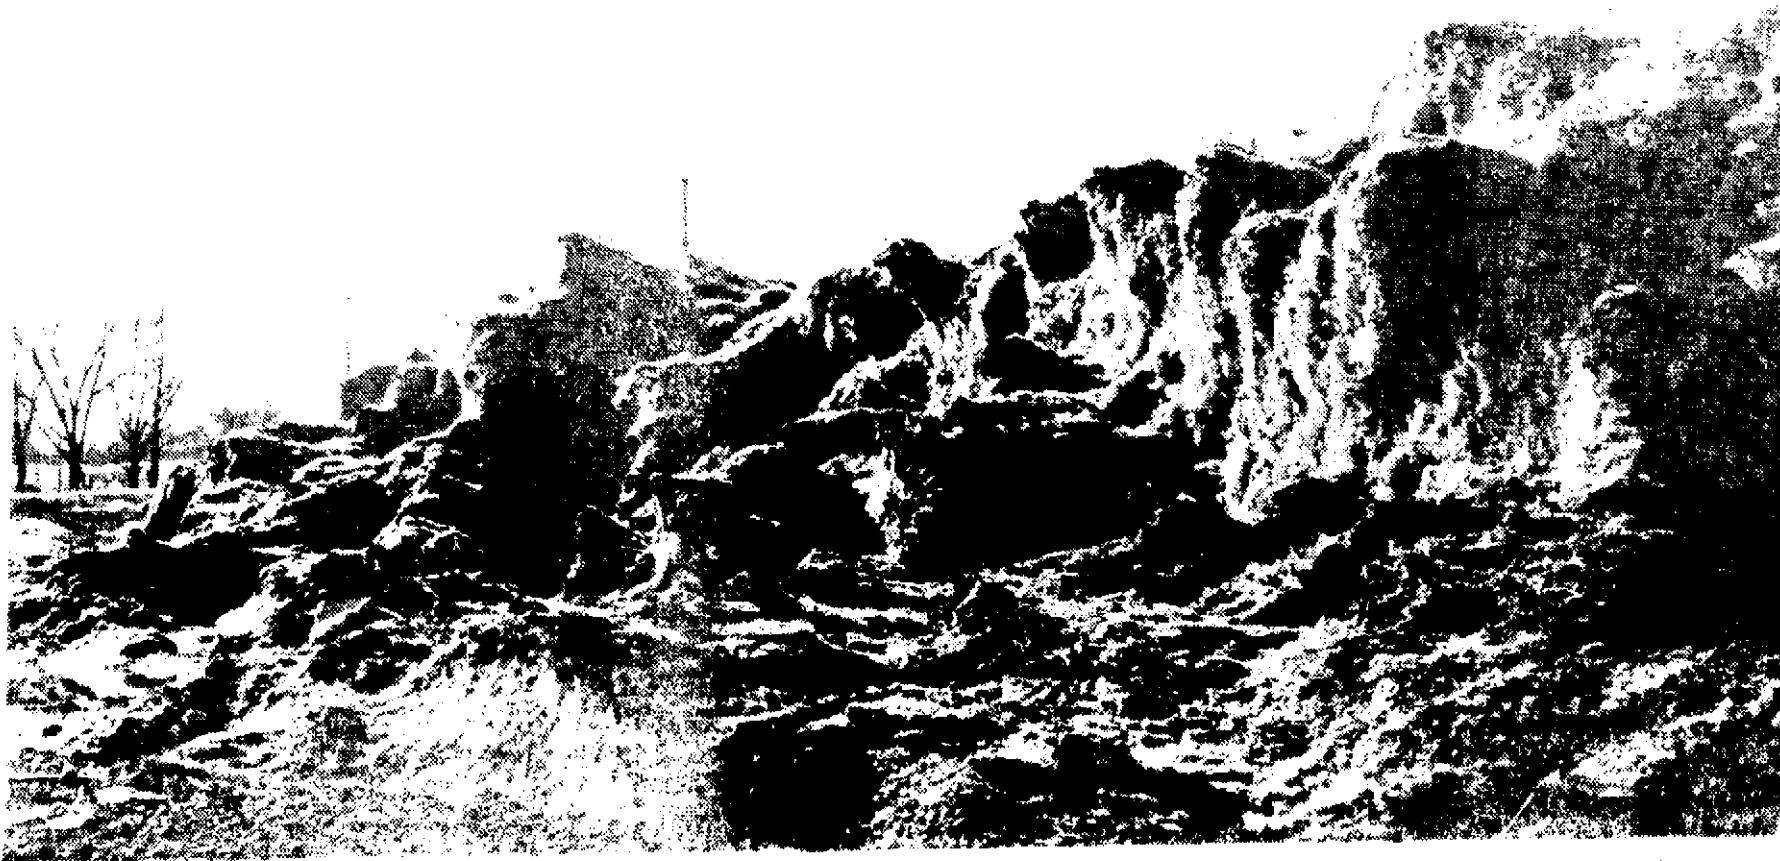

District Atty. Thomas Fink today challenged the right of Judge Sarres to review a sentence pronounced by another county judge.

Fink said De Young's record showed the youth had used marijuana and other drugs since March, 1968, on the average of twice a week. There was little investigation conducted by the State Department of Health and Social Services did not reveal enough of the character and emotional makeup of De Young.

Fink produced affidavits from an OSU counseling psychologist, the head resident of the dormitory in which De Young stayed, a member of De Young's family and a prospective employer, all showing how De Young might benefit more from probation than from a term at the Wisconsin State Reformatory.

Fink said probation could be approved for those persons who are highly unlikely to repeat the offenses for which they were convicted.

Fink said De Young's record showed the youth had used marijuana and other drugs since March, 1968, on the average of twice a week. There was little

The Recent Rains and warm sunshine have melted away much of the dirty snow but in some locations it may take a touch of summer to completely rid the Twin Cities of the past winter's wrath. The parking lot at

The Tenseness of the situation as they lost their lead early in the fourth quarter, is reflected on the Kimberly Paper-makers bench during the state high school basketball tournament at Madison Friday night. Humphrey Endorses Obey, Ends Silence Following Election Defeat

Warns of Republican Power Play

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
WAUSAU — It sounded like candidate Hubert Humphrey back on the campaign trail here Friday night as the former vice president unlimbered his tonsils on behalf of a fellow Democrat who is running for Congress. Humphrey hopped on the stump to break what for him had been a silence since his defeat at the nation's presidential polls last November. If it was not his maiden speech for the 1972 presidential bid, it could have been. It also seemed a natural continuation from where he left off in November, 1968.

From it all came Democratic Assemblyman David Obey, 30, as Humphrey's man in the election to fill the congressional seat formerly occupied by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird. Humphrey termed Obey's election or defeat as the omen that would tell whether liberalism lived on or is smothered in the congress.

Students May Phase Into Higher Fees

Regents Consider 'Grandfather Clause' For Out of Staters

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Any massive fee hike for out of state students in the state university system should include a "grandfather clause" allowing students already here to phase into the higher fees, according to the system's Board of Regents.

The board was reacting to a suggestion of finance committee of the state Coordinating Council for Higher Education (CCH-E) to push for sizable fee hikes for non-residents in Wisconsin's public colleges.

Voters will cast ballots for three of the six aspirants when they go to their ward polling stations.

Joint Committee Cuts Funds For Expanding Labor Agency

$1.3 Million Had Been Intended For Increase in Work Load

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — In a single act Friday, legislative budget-makers chopped out all allocations for new and changed programs, and workload increases from the recommended budget of the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

The action, coming on a straight 10-2 party line vote, dropped $1.3 million planned for the additional work level of the department. About $8.3 million in state financing had been recommended for the agency.

The Legislative joint committee on finance also cut the governor's highway safety council budget in half and transferred it out of his office, but later it then rescinded its action.

GOP Conservatives
The finance unit is dominated by Republican fiscal conservatives who are hunting for ways to cut chunks out of Gov. Warren P. Knowles' proposed $1.6 billion budget, which calls for more than $400 million in new taxes.

The action against the industry department was the first step in a budget review for the agency which will continue next week. Additional cuts are going to be made.

The budget recommendation, first made and then withdrawn for the council, would have cut its eight-man staff to four and placed it in the State Department of Transportation.

Critics of the council's connection with the executive office maintained its programs could duplicate programs of the transportation agency.

The action was approved, but withdrawn later, when executive department and legislative budget staffers suggested that no such duplication would exist.

Man Suffers Bruised Arm When Car Is Struck From Behind

A 27-year-old rural Appleton man suffered a bruised left arm about 3:40 p.m. Friday when his auto was struck from behind on Wisconsin Avenue at N. Oneida Street.

Appleton police advised Ronald R. Bunkert, route 4, to see a doctor.

Bunkert's car was struck by an auto driven by Roger M. Langdok, 46, 325 W. Verbrick St., Appleton. Both cars were moving north on Oneida when Bunkert said he saw children running across the street.

Langdok was cited for following too close.

Merkel suggested that department staff personnel should work harder to make up for the funds refused.

The program cuts came in the fields of industrial safety and building inspection, labor standards and workmen's compensation.

CCHE Attacked State System Demands Equal Funds

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — In a blistering attack on the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, the state university system Friday appealed for student support from state taxes equal to that granted the University of Wisconsin system.

And it singled out budgetary allotments by the CCHE to the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay for special emphasis in comparison to far lower sums proposed by the Coordinating Council for state university campuses.

"Little was done on the CCHE level to equate the support granted the two systems," blasted Eugene R. McPheem head of the state university system.

Wisconsin students in the state university system are being penalized for not being undergraduates at the UW, he better treated with tax funds complained. And by implication, he suggested that out of state undergraduates at the UW are than are Wisconsin students at the state universities.

Regents Meeting
The attack, perhaps the most bitter aimed at it since the legislative budget-trimming sessions which will start on the UW and state university programs soon.

The lawmakers will be cutting programs recommended by Gov. Warren P. Knowles for the two systems. Before Knowles got those budgets, they were reviewed and cut by the Coordinating Council.

Compare Systems
Robert Winter, state university system assistant director, told the board that when undergraduate instruction programs are compared at the UW-Milwaukee and OSU campuses, it becomes apparent that there is a 50 per cent difference in the level of student support in favor of the UW campus.

Teach More
"We in the state university system teach about 53 per cent of the high school students who stay in the state and go on to school. The UW trains about 30 per cent of them," said McPheem.

"We seem to be educating the Wisconsin youngsters and they don't seem to be getting the level of support that they are entitled to

"If you are going to spend some money, you ought to put it on Wisconsin kids," said McPheem.

The two-year campuses of the state university system are expected in the budget recommendations drafted with the help of the CCHE to exist on a $136 per student library allocation.

The UW center system recommendation calls for $225 per student for the same purposes.

Student Affairs
In the field of student affairs and counseling the UW-GB recommendation calls for $207 per student. At OSU, a far larger campus, the recommendation is $67 per student.

"The closest we have to that level is at Oshkosh with $1,554,000," said Winter in comparing his campuses budgets to the $1,700,000 budget for counseling.

Yet the state university system will have more full time equivalent students in the coming two years than will the UW system, he said.

Several of our presidents have had difficulty competing for faculty with the new campuses, and it appears it is because the two new UW campuses can offer more pay for less work," charged Winter.

Holding existing staff workers is similarly difficult, he said.

"At last we're telling it like it really is," said Regent Norman Christianson of Roberts.
